PASS BILLS IN BUNCHES

Omnibus Fashion Has Become Popular in the Senate of Indiana.

MANY MEASURES BUNDLED SUCCEED

News of the Day in the General Assembly of the State.

BULLETIN.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 13.—The Keegan child labor bill was passed by the house at 2:35 this afternoon without any amendments being made. The vote on the measure was 69 to 25. The bill now goes to the senate for its action.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 13.—Eight bills were passed in the senate on an omnibus ballot and a general rush resulted among the senators to get a bill in on the second group to be acted on in this manner, consuming all of the morning. The vote on the second omnibus will be taken at the afternoon session and the Shively recall bill will be displaced from its special order for the fifth time, to allow the vote. The recall bill will take its course afterward and will be followed by the special order on the Jackson bill giving the rights of equity precedence over the rights of law.

Appropriations Bill.

The house convened at 2 o'clock and it is probable that the regular appropriations bill, which is up for third reading, will be passed. Bills are up for third reading in the house. The McKenna drainage bill, of interest to land owners throughout the state, is a special order for today on second reading and amendment. It may be, however, that bills on third reading will crowd the special order over until tomorrow.

The first omnibus measure of the session, for voting on more than one bill at roll call, resulted in the passage of eight bills on which there was little difference of opinion, the greatest number of votes against any of the measures being six.

The Bills Passed.

The Traylor bill to permit the assessment of property in towns for the purpose of grading streets, graveling and paving, the Hibberd bill to permit the city of South Bend to accept land from the county for park purposes, by which 23 acres in addition to 40 acres already acquired will be available, the Strange bill to legalize the building of bridges upon a highway, where there is a junction of a stream, a highway and a county line, were adopted.

Banks may give first mortgages as security for the deposit of county funds, according to the Grube bill that was passed and by the Sullivan bill guardians may be appointed for persons other than infants and those of unsound mind.

School Bill Passed.

Senator Parks had a bill passed that will allow a township trustee to use a donated school house for the purpose for which it was erected. The Higgins bill was passed for the incorporation of societies to perpetuate the memories of old soldiers and to decorate their graves, and the Gavit bill to permit the building of street tunnels in lieu of bridges were also passed.

The purpose of the omnibus method was announced as a means of disposing of bills that were of interest to individuals senators and objection to many measures that were offered to make up the second lot to be acted on drew out the morning session without much progress, other than the votes on the first group.

FISHING SCHOONER LOST.

Gloucester Boat is Long Overdue and is Given Up.

Boston, Feb. 13.—Unreported for two weeks, the Gloucester fishing schooner, Ella M. Goodwin, which left Bay of Islands, B. F., for Boston three weeks ago today, is believed to have been lost, and her crew of nine men drowned during last week's storm. About a week after sailing from Bay of Islands, the vessel was reported to have put into a Nova Scotian port, but cleared again within a few hours. Local marine men are of the opinion the schooner was either rammed by a steamer during the storm or sprang a leak and sank with all on board.

SAYS HE SAW LAWRENCE.

Rome, Feb. 13.—A railway engineer living in Villa Marafiore, the seat of the American academy, upon returning to Rome today, was shown a picture of Perry Lawrence, whereupon he said that he was almost certain that he had seen the missing art student at the railway station in Genoa. The police have no other clue to the whereabouts of the American.

FINDS HER PARENTS.

San Francisco, Feb. 13.—Mrs. Leon Dennery, wife of a San Francisco politician, started a search in Austria for her parents from whom she had been separated in babyhood. In September last she sent to the American ambassador at Vienna a request that a search be made for her father, Ignatz Low. The search was successful and on Saturday, Mrs. Dennery received a long letter from her parents telling her that they had been seeking her in vain for thirty-eight years. The father is a wealthy retired manufacturer of refrigerators at Buda Pest.

CONSTITUTION THE SUBJECT

Democrats of Legislature Will Caucus Tonight on New Organic Law.

INSTRUMENT IS NOW OUT OF DATE

Plan to Submit One to the People for Ratification Soon.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 13.—A new constitution for Indiana will be the principal topic that will be considered by the democratic members of the legislature when they meet in joint caucus tonight.

It is understood that the proposed new constitution has been printed and a copy placed in the hands of every democratic member of the legislature and when they meet tonight each legislator will be familiar with the provisions of the proposed document.

If the caucus acts favorably upon the idea a bill will be introduced embodying all the provisions of the new document and passed by the legislature. Then it will be submitted to the people for ratification or rejection and if it meets with favor at an election it will then become operative.

Modeled Upon Newer Instruments.

It is said the new constitution will be up to date and will be fashioned after some of the constitutions of the new states. It is known that Governor Marshall has been in favor of giving Indiana a new constitution, but has not liked the idea of doing this through a constitutional convention, as it would open a way for the consideration of the hobbies of every individual. So it is said the governor decided it would be better to have the legislature pass a bill containing all of the provisions of the constitution and then if the people ratified it after they had a chance to vote on it, it would then become the law of the state.

Question of Elections.

Whether there shall be a special election called for the people to vote upon the adoption of the constitution, or whether the matter will be submitted to the people at the next general election, will likely be determined at the caucus tonight. It is understood that the new constitution has been submitted to a few leaders in the legislature, to all the states officials, to the members of the supreme and appellate courts and has the approval of all.

It is more than probable that the governor will urge upon the caucus tonight the enactment into law of all the party platform measures. It is understood that the governor desires that the more important bills now pending be taken up at once and passed.

Change is Imperative.

Efforts made in the last few years to amend the constitution on subjects held to be of grave importance has induced the assemblymen to believe that some method of change which will enable the constitution to keep pace with the growing needs of the state is imperative. Among the items said to be due for consideration in the caucuses in connection with the constitution is the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people, initiative and referendum, the recall, the regulation of terms of county officials and possibly the question of equal suffrage.

LEGISLATIVE GOSSIP.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 13.—Senator W. B. Carleton, of Evansville, last night commenting on the possible congressional reapportionment of the state said that he had heard from Congressman J. A. M. Adair, of the Eighth district and that the congressman was satisfied with the boundary lines of his district on the basis of thirteen districts.

According to Senator Carleton the Third district is approximately twenty thousand short in population, as is the First district. Congressman W. E. Cox frowns upon the suggestion that Dubois county, which is now in the Third, be thrown into the first.

Will Protect Cox.

Congressman Cox is a warm personal friend of mine," said Senator Carleton "and I will oppose placing Dubois in the First if Congressman Cox does not favor it, notwithstanding the fact that Dubois is about 1,800 democratic. I think I favor the placing of Perry in the First district. Perry is about 600 democratic."

According to Senator Carleton the Seventh district is sixty to seventy-five thousand long in population under the provisions of the Crumpacker bill. This excess, said Senator Carleton, probably would be divided between the Sixth and the Ninth districts.

Senator Carleton will deliver his lecture on Abraham Lincoln before the Knights of Columbus, at their hall in Indianapolis this evening.

Durre Ruled the Roost.

Senator Edgar Durre, of Evansville, was the absolute master of a situation that arose in the senate during the session Saturday morning. A vote on a motion was put to the senate by Lieutenant Governor Hall and there was one "aye" vote and one vote "no." Without hesitation the chair ruled in favor of the "no," but Senator Stoltzenburg asked that the vote be reconsidered as he was not aware that the question was to be put, but the fact that he had not voted on the winning side prevented his request from being granted.

"Mr. President," called out the senator from Vanderburg, "to clear up the situation I will confess that I cast both of those votes and having voted "no," I call for a reconsideration." The motion to reconsider carried and once more the chair put the question on the pending motion.

This time there was a eneral chorus of "ayes" and even the vicliferous vote of Senator Durre was lost among the number upon which the chair ruled that the ayes have it.

Would Have Majority Verdicts.

Senator David A. Lambert, of Muncie, believes that it ought to be the law in Indiana that a majority of a jury would be sufficient to return a verdict in civil cases. "I have not decided just what the majority ought to be," said Senator Lambert, "but I expect to propose a bill that will secure a verdict if three-fourths of the jurors can agree.

"This is not a novel thing. In many states there are laws to allow less than a unanimous verdict in civil cases and this should be the law in Indiana. The commonest majority is three-fourths, but some states go as low as two-thirds and in British India six men with the judge may decide upon a verdict. Such a bill would be equitable in every way and would do away with the frequent expense of mis-trials.

FUNERAL OF THE GREAT PRELATE

Burial of Archbishop Ryan Will Be Made Most Impressive.

CARDINAL TO ATTEND

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 13.—Final arrangements were made today for the funeral of Archbishop Ryan, which will be held at the cathedral next Thursday and which promises to be one of the most impressive ever witnessed in Philadelphia. Cardinal Gibbons will preside and archbishops, bishops and priests from all sections of the United States will be present when the divine office for the dead is begun Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Archbishop Ryan died at 4:19 o'clock Saturday afternoon, after a long illness. During the last three or four days of his illness he had seemed to be making some headway toward recovery, but the desperate character of his sickness during two weeks previous had so sapped his strength he was able to do little fighting back to health. He died with a prayer on his lips, murmuring, "I wish to be with Christ, with God."

ARCHBISHOP P. J. RYAN.

Patrick John Ryan was born in Thurles, County Tipperary, Ireland, in 1831. He was orphaned early in life, and was educated by the Christian brothers at Arles. He was a diligent student, had a talent for poetry and was an orator of great natural gifts. He came to America in 1852 and his advancement in the church was steady until he attained almost its highest honors. He did much to break down the prejudice that had long existed in Philadelphia against the Catholic church.

ARCHITECT BADLY HURT.

New York, Feb. 13.—No improvement was noted this morning in the condition of John M. Carrere, the architect, who is unconscious at the Presbyterian hospital as the result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident last night. Mr. Carrere, whose work in many cities throughout the country, has been regarded by eminent architects as of the highest merit, is suffering from concussion of the brain and scalp wounds. His condition, hospital surgeons say, is critical.

WHITLOCK IS UP AND AWAY

Vermilion County Former Treasurer Flies to Detroit.

SIDESTEPS GRAND JURY SUBPOENA

Powerful Interests Working to Prevent Vote-Buying Inquiry.

Danville, Ill., Feb. 13.—Hardy H. Whitlock, who was indicted last week for embezzling county funds, returned to Danville yesterday in custody of Sheriff Shepard and immediately gave bond. In an interview Mr. Whitlock said that he had received no subpoena to appear before the grand jury, but if one was served he would gladly go.

"I do not know what the grand jurors would ask me should they summons me, but I will state that I will answer truthfully and fearlessly every question put to me." Mr. Whitlock was asked to what extent he had bought votes. He declined to answer the question, saying it would all be brought out at his trial and before the grand jury, if he was called.

Changes Mind; Slopes.

Mr. Whitlock suddenly changed his mind this morning about remaining in Danville and left for Detroit. It was stated by his attorney that Mrs. Whitlock was ill at Detroit, which necessitated the presence of her husband. It was given out that in the event Mr. Whitlock was wanted by the grand jury he would return.

The statement is being freely made on the streets and about the court house that Whitlock was urged to return to Detroit before a subpoena for the grand jury could be issued for him. According to the story, certain powerful interests which are attempting to block the investigation told Whitlock they would stand by him in his trial if he would leave the state until his trial was called.

Serving Warrants.

Sheriff Shepard and his deputies began serving bench warrants this morning on some of the persons who were indicted last week. The grand jury assembles at 1:30 o'clock, when it is expected vote selling at the soldiers' home will be delved into. Several persons connected with the management of the home have been subpoenaed. There is a persistent rumor this morning that an effort will be made to have a special state's attorney appointed this afternoon, but it cannot be verified.

RUSSIAN STUDENTS ARRESTED

St. Petersburg, Feb. 13.—Fifteen hundred striking students were arrested today following riotous demonstrations in the university precincts. After having been closed for two days the lecture rooms were reopened this morning. The attendance was small and those present were soon driven out by fumes of noxious chemicals with which the strikers filled the building.

PENSION BILL IS IN SENATE

Measure to Give Stipend to Every Veteran is Reported.

COMMITTEE CUTS MAXIMUM TO $30

Sulloway Measure Will Add $50,000,000 a Year to Pension Allowance.

Washington, Feb. 13.—By a vote of eight to three, the senate committee on pensions today agreed to report to the senate the Sulloway general pension bill, which already has passed the house. It was amended so that the annual cost, in addition to the $153,000,000 estimated for the ensuing year, will be about $45,000,000. As the bill passed the house it would have cost about $50,000,000.

Senator McCumber, chairman of committee, opposed the Sulloway bill and endeavored to have the committee report a measure which would cost for the first year about $8,300,000. He was joined by Senators Gore and Taliaferro in making up the minority on the final vote.

Maximum Cut to $30.

As passed by the house the Sulloway bill would increase the monthly pension of veterans of 62 years from $12 to $15; of 65 years from twelve to twenty dollars; of 70 years from fifteen to twenty-five dollars, and from seventy or more, from twenty to thirty-six dollars. The senate committee by a vote of six to five, reduced the proposed maximum allowance from $36 to $30. As there are estimated to be 63,461 veterans who would be affected by this amendment at the present time, the change would decrease the annual cost a little more than $4,500,000.

On the statement made by Secretary of the Interior Ballinger the cost of the Sulloway bill as passed by the house would be $45,489,466 but the committee found that there would have to be added to this amount about $4,000,000 to which a limited number of veterans would be entitled under eneral laws increasing the total to about $5,000,000 a year.

Its friends do not anticipate an easy time passing the measure through the senate, especially as it has been intimated that President Taft would veto it if it were presented to him for his signature. The very fact that some senators are confident that the president would veto the measure is said to have induced a withdrawal of considerable opposition, but on the other hand there are senators who feel that the responsibility of such action should be placed upon the executive.

PREACH THE REVOLUTION.

Young Chinese Women Say Men Should Fight for Republic.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 13.—Two educated young Chinese women, Mrs. J. Jung, a graduate of the Canton Normal school, and Miss R. Loo, a graduate of the University of California, addressed a revolutionary meeting under the auspices of the Young China party here last night, urging their male hearers to take up arms and fight for a republic in China. The young women were cheered during their appeals, after which the audience joined in singing the Chinese marseillaise, "Cho Ong Gwan."

INSURGENTS WALLOP FEDS

Badly Beaten at Mulata a Retreat is Made to Ojinaga.

FEDERALS KILL NON-COMBATANTS

Aged Men Bound and Shot by Diaz Troops—Loss Was Heavy.

Marfa, Texas, Feb. 13.—Delayed advices received here today clears up suspense over results of the fighting between insurrectos and federals around Mulata. The last word received during the middle of last week told of federal reverses in an assault upon rebel lines at Mulata. News received here today says the tide of battle remained the same, with the result that the federals retreated to Ojinaga, their base of supplies. The insurrectos were unable to check Luque's retreat. Their supply of ammunition was exhausted.

The federal loss was forty killed and wounded.

Cruelty of the Federals.

The insurrecto loss was one killed and one wounded throughout the two days' battle. Their leader, Ortega, had provided excellent defensive works against the federals' assaults. The insurgents fought from behind breastworks, stone heaps and trees. It reminded one of the days of the fighting when the Indian combatted the westward march of the yankee.

Stories are told of federal soldiers' cruelty to non-combatants and the refusal of the insurrecto leader to permit his men to take revenge. Four old non-combatants were found in a farm house near Mulata when the federals first approached the town. One of the men was ninety years old, another was blind and another a cripple. All were white haired. The insurrectos found these old men with their hands tied behind their backs, lying riddled with bullets. Their heads were crushed, and one was slashed across the face by a sabre.

A Dramatic Incident.

A dramatic incident followed the discovery of the four murdered men. A government soldier had been found lying wounded in the field. He had been cared for and fed. When the murdered men were found several insurrectos made a rush for the Plaza in Mulata to take revenge by killing this wounded soldier. In the crowd was a son and a nephew of one of the aged victims. Like crazy men they ran yelling into the Plaza and dragged the soldier into the street. Many argued against him, but others, maddened by the sight of the butchered old men, drew their pistols and declared they would kill any man that tried to stop them. At that moment, Ortega, the insurrecto commander, rode into the Plaza and called a halt.

Ortega Quiets Their Rage.

"My children," he said, "I have had a home laid in ruins and a wife and babies driven naked and starving into the hills, but I am not yet ready to kill an unarmed, wounded man."

The mobs rage was quieted and only one man, the son of one of the victims stepped forward to take the federal soldier's life. Ortega drew his pistol. "It would break my heart to have to kill a comrade," he said, "but we shall not be murderers like the soldiers of Diaz."

The terrified wounded federal soldier was picked up, mumbling his thanks and removed to a shanty.

In the two days' battle the pronunciados lost one man killed and one wounded.

Rebels Forced the Fighting.

During the entire battle the insurrectos forced the fighting. The battle started at 10 o'clock February 7 and lasted until 9 o'clock the night of the 8th. The federals had six hundred soldiers in the field and the insurrectos mustered about 200 men. During the second day's fighting the federals were completely surrounded and were driven back each time a sortie was attempted. In the evening Ortega made an inspection of the different detachments and found his ammunition was almost exhausted. When the federals began their retreat the insurrectos were not able to halt them, but gave chase for several miles down the road. Twenty-five dead is a conservative estimate.

Desert Federal Army.

The federals had about fifty men missing when they returned to Ojinaga but it is known that at least twelve deserted.

The American soldiers and federal officers guarding the American side of the Rio Grande were repeatedly fired upon by the federal soldiers.

Five boys, all American citizens, were captured by Mexican rurales yesterday while bathing in the Rio Grande. The rurales shot at them and compelled them to wade across the river and surrender. The boys were released this morning after being locked up all night.

REPUBLICANS FURNISH NAYS

By Vote of 195 to 121 the House Takes Up Agreement With Canada.

MEASURE TO HAVE IMMEDIATE CALL

Democrats Vote Almost Solidly for Discussion of Reciprocity.

Washington, Feb. 13.—The house by a vote of 195 to 121 decided today to begin immediate discussion of the McCall bill, carrying out the reciprocity agreement with Canada. No agreement has been reached as to the limit of debate but the bill may be passed today.

While the vote to displace the regular order for today on the house calendar and take up reciprocity cannot be accepted as an exact indication on the final vote on the bill, it is regarded as being approximately so.

Republicans Furnish Nays.

The vote against taking up the measure today came almost wholly from the republican side.

The democrats voted almost solidly for immediate consideration. Some of the republicans who voted against displacing the regular order are not expected to place themselves on record against reciprocity on a final vote.

McCall, of Massachusetts, will handle the time for debate in favor of the bill and Mr. Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, will serve in like capacity for the opposition.

Debate Begins.

The bill is first being considered as in committee of the whole house on the state of the union. All bills affecting the revenues are thus considered. Speaker Cannon called Representative Mann of Illinois, to the chair to preside over the committee during the consideration of the measure.

Mr. Hill of Connecticut, opened for the reciprocity agreement with a speech of one hour. Mr. Gains of West Virginia, opened the argument against the agreement.

At 2:30 o'clock it was stated that no attempt would be made to get the measure to a vote today.

MRS. HILL ENDS JAIL SENTENCE

Smuggling Lady Who Went to the Tombs in New York Released.

FIRST TO BE JAILED

New York, Feb. 13.—The prison sentence of three days in the Tombs imposed last Friday upon Mrs. Roberta Menges-Corwin-Hill, divorced wife of Captain Arthur Hill, of the British army, who pleaded guilty to a charge of smuggling, expired today and Mrs. Hill was released. A big crowd of curious was in waiting when Mrs. Hill, close veiled, appeared on the arm of her father, Morris Menges, the racing man, and was quickly escorted to a waiting automobile which started off to the accompaniment of a rapid-fire clicking of camera shutters.

Mrs. Hill, the first woman upon whom a prison sentence has been imposed here on a smuggling accusation, pleaded guilty to a charge of bringing a $6,000 sable coat and jewelry valued at $2,700 into the country from France without payment of duty. The sentence was imposed after a recent warning from the federal bench that imprisonment would hereafter be a part of the penalty in smuggling cases.

KAISER WILHELM IS REALLY SICK

"Cold Without Fever" Will Confine Him to Room for a Week.

SAID TO BE BETTER

Berlin, Feb. 13.—The indisposition of Emperor William apparently is more serious than has been indicated in the official announcements, though it is insisted that no anxiety concerning the outcome is felt.

The first bulletins described his majesty as suffering from a cold, but with the absence of any fever. Subsequently it was admitted an attack of fever had been experienced. Today it is stated the emperor is up after two days in bed, but that he will be confined to his chamber until the end of the present week. The court ball set for Wednesday night has been cancelled.

BOARD CALLS IN THE CONTRACTOR

Must Show That He Will Finish Work Promptly at Crossings.

READY FOR COUNCIL

A. G. Trippeer, of the contracting firm of Trippeer and Son, was called in by the board of public works this afternoon for a consultation on track elevation work and if the members secure assurances from him that he will do the work within a specified time and that he will carry it forward in a business like way the agreements covering Fairfield avenue and Broadway will be sent to the city council tomorrow night for ratification.

City officials say that under no consideration will they permit the contracting firm to do the work in the same manner as it was carried on throughout the summer at Calhoun street. The board members will put a time limit on the work with a forfeit and if they accomplish what they had in mind when they went into the session the contracting firm will finish at the stipulated date or forfeit enough money to justify the city in aking the work up and finishing it.

Mr. Trippeer insisted that his firm was not entirely to blame and he says that the greatest and most trying delays grew out of the fact that the traction company, the gas company, the city water mains, city conduits, sewers and a dozen other things had to be cared for. Work necessary in arranging these systems was not taken up in time, he says, and was not completed as it should have been and the unsatisfactory manner in which grade separation was carried on last summer is charged to these incidents that were not anticipated.

Trouble is expected in the city council unless the contract is so hedged about with guarantees that there will be no chance of a repetition of the Calhoun street trouble. If it is rejected new bids will have to be asked and this will entail a long delay to comply with the legal formalities.

CIDER INDUSTRY AS A SIDE LINE

Roselot Has Soft Drink Emporium for His Sunday Card.

CITY COURT CASES

As a side line to his saloon business during the week, it is alleged, Fred Rosselot is conducting a cider industry as a side line for the Sabbath trade and after Frank Fitzgerald had imbibed a drink or two of the stuff he was arrested and convicted in the city court today of public intoxication.

Fitzgerald is a police character and was fined $25 and costs. He said the cider was recommended as soft and perfectly harmless. He also said that was all he had to drink and the police testified that he was drunk. Rosselot has a cigar store in connection with his saloon and sold cider there yesterday.

Held Under Bond.

Ada Johnson, a negro woman who went to police headquarters yesterday to complain that her husband, William Johnson, had given her a beating, became ill at the station and was removed to a hospital. It is believed that her husband's thrashing is responsible for her condition. Both were drunk and the woman became ill in a cell. A fractured rib is given as the cause of her illness and Johnson was held until Saturday under a bond of $200.

Saloonkeeper Drunk.

Dave Randall, a saloonkeeper who managed to get a license from the county commissioners in spite of a very bad reputation, was found drunk on East Wayne street and locked up. He was released on bond after he had sobered up and did not appear this morning. He was fined $5 and costs and Judge Mungovan announced that his place ought to be closed up. Albert Reed was with him and he was let go. He had a bottle of beer in his pocket but said that Randall gave it to him.

The Other Cases.

Two women from the recently abolished districts were found on West Main street with two men and all were sent to headquarters. Each was fined $10 and costs and the men were given ten days but their sentences were suspended. The police have been instructed to arrest these women if they attempt to pick up men on the streets.

Jack Kelley was fined $5 and costs for vagrancy. Luther Shoemaker got the same amount for drunkenness and John McCabe was let down with $1 and costs.

Charles Strack and Helena Campbell, who have been living together in spite of the fact that the woman has a husband, were fined $5 and costs each and given ten days in jail. The jail sentence was suspended during good behavior.

Barney Selig, charged with stealing a diamond necklace from his mother, was held to the circuit court.

William Burns, who entered the home of John McMaken, four miles west of the city, is the same fellow who has entered a number of houses while he was drunk. His case was continued until tomorrow. He stumbled over a chair at McMakens and woke up the man of the house but got out before he was captured and was later picked up by Deputy Sheriffs Immel and Courdevey.

William Wallace and Robert Dennin were fined $10 and costs and $5 respectively for loitering.

WORKED OFF ONE ORDER IN STORE

Woman Said She and Man Were Buying Presents for Wedding.

MADE THEIR ESCAPE

When a well dressed man and woman bought a lot of doilies and expensive linen which they said they wanted for wedding presents and gave their address as 826 Columbia avenue, they had no trouble getting the goods and $35 in change for a forged money order, presented at the People's Store Saturday afternoon.

The woman is in all probability the same who worked a couple of hotels in town with the orders and who skipped out with the man before there was any chance to land her or her accomplice. It is believed that several other concerns were caught, but they are keeping quiet about it and will stand the losses without making them public.

The man and woman seemed in no haste. They looked at things carefully and purchased goods in a way to invite confidence and there was no hesitancy about the money order.

The blank on which the money order was made out is one of a lot of 200 stolen some time ago from one of the sub-stations of the Chicago postoffice. One was presented at the Randall hotel Saturday by a woman giving the name of Mary Carter and she obtained $25 on it. The order was for $50 and she was given half of it and promised the balance when she returned from a shopping trip.

Another was presented at the Wayne hotel and was for $80. On this the woman obtained $20 and she afterward went to the Anthony and wanted more money, but Manager Will Black told her it was against the rules to cash any paper without the payee had been fully identified and there was nothing doing with him.

Detective Sergeant Pappert made a thorough search of the city for the pair, but believes they got out of town Saturday night.

DRINKS GIN AND SHOOTS HIMSELF

Ross Whitney Fires Small Calibre Bullet Into Right Breast.

WROTE A SHORT NOTE

Ross Whitney, twenty-three years old and a painter who has been boarding at the Union house, on West Main street, took a drink of gin in the Atlas Ale house, on East Main street, about 10 o'clock this morning, wrote a short note and then fired a 32-Calibre bullet at his heart.

He succeeded in setting his clothing on fire and the ball penetrated his body at a point near the heart but he was still conscious when he was removed in an ambulance to Hope hospital.

No effort had been made this afternoon to probe for the bullet, but the patient was resting well and the physicians think he will recover. It is believed the ball struck a rib and will be found near the surface.

Whitney entered the saloon and bought a drink of Norman Barr and asked for a piece of paper. He scribbled a note that is hardly legible and then offered Charles Lehrman, a farmer, who sat opposite him at a table, ten cents to deliver it. Lehrman did not understand just what was expected of him but said he would see the note delivered and as he picked up the dime to return it Whitney drew a revolver and fired one shot.

He sank to the floor and in response to a question from John E. Booth, manager of the Brunswick bowling alleys, said, "It's all about a girl. This is what the girls will do for a fellow." As he was removed on a stretcher he asked that his head be raised and on the way to the hospital and afterward at the institution said he tried to kill himself because he was out of a job.

He has been here about two years and was employed at one time at the Pennsylvania shops at his trade. Later he worked for Andrew Vogly and at the City Carriage works. In his talk with Lehrman he said his father owns a ranch in Montana and that he was badly crippled at one time in an automobile wreck. He came originally from Pennsylvania and was not known at the Atlas Ale house.

A few minutes before he made the attempt upon his life he was joking with the people in the saloon and was not under the influence of liquor and, there was nothing in his demeanor either to indicate that he had been drinking or that he contemplated suicide. He was accompanied to the door of the saloon by a companion who left him and was in a barbershop next door when the shooting occurred.

He reported for work at Vogly's this morning but there was another man on hand to take his place and it is supposed that this was one of the causes that prompted him to try to end his life. He was erratic and his employers could not depend upon him and he told so many stories about himself that none of them knows where he came from or anything about him.

Grand Masquerade Ball will be held Valentine evening, the 14th, by the P. H. C. circle, No. 279, at Dehm's hall, corner Calhoun and Jefferson Sts.

ELEVATION BILL FOR FORT WAYNE

Legislative Committee Has Trimmed It to Fit This City.

READY FOR ACTION

Representative Clifford J. Moran has notified City Attorney H. G. Hogan that the track elevation bill designed to replace the one that Fort Wayne outgrew, has been reported out of committee with an amendment that will remove the objections made by South Bend and Terre Haute.

The amendments provides that it shall apply to cities with populations of from sixty to sixty-eight thousand instead of to those of the second class and it is believed it will pass the general assembly in this form. Under this amendment Fort Wayne is the only city included and it will have its old law back with the only new provision that was desired.

At the time it was drafted South Bend and Terre Haute offered no objection and it was only after it had been referred to a committee that a fight against it developed.

Talked Over Conditions.

At the conference between the city officials and William M. Wardrop, the new superintendent of the Pennsylvania company, on Saturday afternoon all of the angles of track elevation were viewed and at the close the only thing accomplished was that the new superintendent had become acquainted.

He listened patiently while the city told him what was expected of him and his company but gave no outward sign that he would agree to anything, and the meeting bore a most marked resemblance to the action of a certain general who made a round trip on a hill with his troops.

THE COURT NEWS

John Carroll's will was filed in the circuit court today and under its provisions nothing is left but a lawsuit. He wants his body buried by the side of his wife and if the property involved in the suit is recovered he asked that it be sold and his debts paid from the proceeds.

The suit in question is one instituted to recover a deed held by his nice, Hanna Linchy, which he says was wrongfully obtained. After the payment of the debts and the costs of administration of his estate the money left is to be given to Father John Quinlan for masses for the repose of Carroll's soul.

Insane Man at Monroeville.

Sheriff Reichelderfer was called to Monroeville to take charge of Peter Muench against whom insanity proceedings had been instituted. There was some confusion and the sheriff was not quite certain about the identity of his man when he left. Information reached him that the man in charge was Theodore Munch, who engaged in a lawsuit last week with his brother, and who was said to have gone insane as a result of brooding over it.

LADY PEDAGOGUES ATTEND A SUFFRAGETTE MEETING.

SUFFRAGE MEETING FOR THE TEACHERS OF THE 6 KATHERINE BLAKE MRS. BEATRICE FORBES ROBERTSON HALE 14TH ASSEMBLY DISTRICT

New York, Feb. 13.—In the Jones Street Settlement Home, called "The Greenwich House," a few steps from Bleecker street, with big open fireplace and high backed seats around a swinging crane, public school teachers heard a series of suffrage talks last evening. Miss Florence King presided. Mrs. Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale and Miss Katherine Blake were among the speakers.

While the wood fire burned brightly and the mandolins and guitars were waiting to be played by the young folk of the Settlement Home, Miss Blake, for sixteen years a principal in the New York public schools, said the teachers had suffered so much on account of unequal pay for doing a man's work that a majority were only too ready to attempt to obtain fair wages by fighting for votes for women.

"Eve was the first great teacher," said Miss Blake. "She was the first to know the difference between good and evil, and she committed no sin in acquiring that knowledge."

RICH STRIKE MADE BY A MARION MAN

Found Oil Property in Utah That Will Make Him Wealthy—Daughter With Him.

Marion, Ind., Feb. 13.—Samuel T. Markley, one of the best known oil producers and wildcat operators in the country, formerly interested in the local field, has discovered a new oil field in Utah. The field is 200 miles from any railroad and is located among the blanket Indians in a wild and broken country. Markley recently took a sample of the oil to St. Louis, had it assayed and learned that it is a high grade oil, containing so much paraffin that it will be impossible to send it through a pipe line, being so rich in paraffin that it would crystalize in the line. It is said to contain just enough gasoline to cut it sufficiently to make it flow when being produced, but the friction of forcing it through a pipe line would cause it to become as thick as butter.

It is said the oil is worth $4 a barrel in the market, but it will be necessary to have a railroad built to the oil field to get it to the market in tank cars.

Mr. Markley left two weeks ago for Bluff, Utah, taking his daughter, Miss Donna Markley, of Marion, who has been suffering with lung trouble and who has been in Denver for the last year for the benefit of her health.

Word received from Miss Markley by her mother in Marion announced that she had arrived at their destination, going 200 miles by stage coach, and that they are now living in a tent among the Indians, that she is doing the cooking for her father and enjoying the wild outdoor life.

Mr. Markley expects to make a large sum of money as the result of his discovery, by selling his holdings or by getting a railroad built to his property.

WAS A DEKALB PIONEER.

Death of Jesse Brumbach at Home Near Corunna.

Corunna, Ind., Feb. 13.—Jesse Brumbach, a wealthy retired farmer and pioneer of Fairfield township, DeKalb county, died at his home one mile east of Corunna, Saturday, aged about 88 years. Death was due to a complication of diseases and the infirmities of old age. Up until his recent illness, however, he was still quite active. He came to Fairfield township in the early forties from Ohio, locating on the farm where he resided for the past sixty-seven years. He was a prominent stock and horse buyer and for a number of years dealt extensively in that line. He was also a commissioner of DeKalb county at one time. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. John Walters and a son Edward.

REFUSED TO PAY TEACHER.

Because He Had Not Been Granted Proper Certificate.

Van Wert, O., Feb. 13.—Joseph H. Auer et al have brought suit against the board of education of Washington township enjoining the board from issuing a warrant on the school treasurer for the purpose of paying the salary of E. J. Keifer as superintendent of the schools of the township.

It is alleged in the petition that Mr. Keifer has never been granted a certificate by the board of examiners that would indicate his fitness to teach the higher branches, geometry, algebra, physical geography, rhetoric, logic, literature, etc.

BIG CORUNNA FIRE.

Corunna, Ind., Feb. 13.—Corunna was visited by a disastrous fire when Saturday the notion store of W. A. Zonuker, together with practically all the contents, was totally destroyed, entailing a loss of approximately $12,000, which was partly covered by insurance. The contents were valued at $8,000. The only articles saved from the conflagration were a barrel of crackers and a barrel of sugar.

THE DR. WAS IN A CYCLONE

Dr. B. N. Alsworth, the physician of Purvis, Mississippi, writes interesting details about the cyclone that devasted that section. We quote: "I suppose you saw a notice in the papers that we had a cyclone on the 24th of May. It swept our little town about off the earth. Thank Providence, my family and self came out alive, but my drug store was swept to the winds. We are picking it up slowly. I found four bottles Fulton's Renal Compound unbroken and gave them to a lady whom the other physicians had given up (kidney disease). She came to me as soon as she heard that I had returned to my practice again, and I put her on the Renal Compound and she is now nearly well. But I need more, and you will please send me another dozen of the Renal Compound from your nearest shipping point.

"In haste.

"B. N. ALSWORTH, M. D."

How can people who have any kind of kidney trouble expect to get well on the old futile kidney patents when the census deaths show that ninety-two out of every hundred of them passed out from a form of the disease that was incurable up to the date that Fulton worked out his renal compound?

Due to the futility of the old-time kidney medicines, the kidney deaths now number one every nine minutes.

Isn't there room here for serious reflection for the man who is on his way to the drug store for a kidney medicine?

MURDER CHARGES NOT SUSTAINED

Dismissal of Case Against Mrs. Karney, Accused of Murdering Her Husband.

Portland, Ind., Feb. 13.—Realizing his inability to convict Mrs. Sallie R. Karney, of Corkwell, of any degree of homicide in connection with the death of her husband, David Karney, Oct. 31, last, Prosecuting Attorney Malcolm V. Skinner asked Judge Moran in the circuit court to enter a dismissal of the charge. The court consented, and the case was stricken from the docket, and Mrs. Karney discharged.

Mrs. Karney has been at liberty since the ninth day after her arrest, when she was released under bond of $10,000 by Judge James J. Moran, following the filing and hearing of a habeas corpus proceeding, that served to bring out every bit of evidence submitted to the grand jurors, and on which they returned their indictment. Judge Moran indicated that he did not believe the proof sufficient to sustain any degree of homicide.

CHARGED WITH SHORTAGE.

State Accountants After Former Blackford Officials.

Hartford City, Ind., Feb. 13.—The report of the state board of accounts on the sheriff's and county clerk's office has just been made in this county. C. A. Reeves, former county clerk, is charged with a shortage of $1,810.64. This does not include more than $1,566.69 he paid back to his successor, who had found discrepancies.

Reeves was a republican candidate for the congressional nomination in the Eleventh district. At present he is the editor of a reform publication and campaigned the county in the interest of the Anti-Saloon league.

Sheriff John Clemme is alleged to be $317.17 in arrears and ex-Sheriff Eldridge Hudson is reported to have retained $1,057.96 illegally in fees.

DEATH WAS SUDDEN.

Prominent Resident of Goshen Fell Dead in Chicken Coop.

Goshen, Ind., Feb. 13.—Conrad L. Landgreaver, aged 65 years, long a resident of Goshen, who served as county auditor from 1884 until 1892 and who had been engaged in the retail hardware business and different kinds of manufacturing, dropped dead Saturday in a chicken coop in the rear of the Mrs. Sophia Yeakel residence, 507 South Seventh street. His body was found by his wife, who, becoming alarmed when he failed to return home for dinner, went in search of him. Mr. Langreaver's health had been failing for several years and he was afflicted with an ailment of the heart. This was the cause of his death.

IF ANDREWS GOES "WET"

Town Will Only Get One Saloon—Formerly Had Three.

Andrews, Ind., Feb. 13.—If the election on the saloon question on the 28th goes "wet," Andrews can have only one saloon in place of three as were in operation when the remonstrance put them out two years ago. If the result is in favor of the saloon, Charles Rudig will again engage in the business, if he can get a license, in the same place he occupied up to two years ago, now used by Beyer Bros. for a packing house. He has already filed notice of his application. The population of the town limits the possible number of saloons to one. The drys hope to prevent a resumption of the business.

DEATH OF DAUGHTER.

Churubusco, Ind., Feb. 13.—Maude A. Brumbaugh, the young daughter of George Brumbaugh and wife, residing in Green township, Noble county, died Saturday after a very short illness from pneumonia. JUST WOULDN'T WEAR 'EM, THAT'S ALL

HENRIETTA LEE MORRISON AND THE STAGE COSTUMES SHE REFUSED TO WEAR

New York, Feb. —It has been decided by a jury in the supreme court that a military costume in musical comedy means a skirt to the ankles and that a military costume in burlesque means tights. After seeing the costumer's plates offered as evidence in the suit of Mrs. Henrietta Lee Morrison—on the stage Henrietta Lee against Hurtig & Seamon the twelve men decreed that the plaintiff was entitled to collect $5,800 salary. She testified that she was willing to wear the musical comedy military uniform and hat she had refused flatly to face the public in "hardly more than a sword," which was her way of describing the burlesque idea of the clothes a soldier wears.

The PEOPLE'S STORE

AUCTION OF BUS BARN STOCK.

The Motor Transfer company, which recently purchased the Fort Wayne Transfer line of S. B. Barnett, held an auction sale Saturday and eighteen of the fifty-seven horses were sold for $2,000. Five railroad cabs, sixteen set of harness and practically all of the company's old rolling stock was sold for an approximate price of $1,200. The sale was conducted by Auctioneer H. W. Sigrist, and was attended by buyers from all sections of northern Indiana. The horses brought an average price of $125, the highest price paid being $150 for a sorrel coach horse, and $325 the highest price for a team, which was purchased by C. W. North, of Bluffton, for the Bluffton Construction company. The cabs and other transfer vehicles were purchased by F. E. Urbines, of Woodburn, and T. F. Gerardot, of New Haven.

The new company will retain the ambulance and funeral equippage of the old company and will purchase new coach horses within a short time. The company has a deal pending for the construction of four new taxicabs, which will bring the total number operated by the company up to twelve.

THE WATERWAY PROJECT.

Great public projects do not at best move rapidly. Unless strongly and persistently pushed they cease to be projects. The Michigan and Erie waterway project may seem to outsiders to have made little progress, but it has been moving forward and that, too, in spite of some stubborn obstacles. The enterprise is as much alive as ever and its promoters are more determined than at any time. It is confidently believed that the next congress will be much less hostile to waterway projects than the present congress has shown itself and that the Michigan and Erie canal project will be given a square deal. Powerful interests hostile to all inland waterway development have been more influential with the congress now expiring than considerations of the public welfare.

The best impression that can be made on congress will come from a convincing demonstration that the people not only want but are demanding waterway development. So far there has been a strange lethargy along the proposed route of the Michigan and Erie canal. Toledo has scarcely realized there is such a project. Chicago has taken little note of it and intermediate points that may hope to profit from building of the waterway appear not to have considered the movement as a serious and determined undertaking. Even in Fort Wayne, where the project was born and where chiefly it has been nurtured, there is no such general enlistment of interest as an enterprise of such mighty potentiality for our good ought to command.

Tonight there is going to be a meeting at the Commercial club to listen to a talk by one of America's ablest and most enthusiastic waterway advocates and promoters. Capt. Charles Campbell, editor of the Inland Waterways Magazine, an authority of great distinction will address the meeting. It will be scant courtesy to him and a poor thing to say of our interest in our own enterprise if he is not greeted by a large crowd and with abundant enthusiasm.

A NEW CONSTITUTION.

Sixty years it is since the constitution of Indiana was revised, either up or down. It may be easily supposed that in so long a period of immunity from change the state's organic law has been at many points outgrown. New conditions of society make new conditions of government imperative. Laws much needed are obstructed by the constitution which hedges the legislature about with a thousand limitations. Some of the progressive legislation proposed for the present session is involved in doubt that its validity could be uphold. At all events, the changes of sixty years are sufficient to urge revision of the constitution or the adoption of a new one.

Governor Marshall in his message urged this and it is the subject of a democratic caucus in Indianapolis. The governor is said to have evolved a procedure by which a constitution can be adopted by the legislature and submitted to the people for ratification, thus dispensing with the bickering and uncertainty that would ensue in a constitutional convention. It is asserted that high legal authority gives opinion that such a course would be entirely valid.

By whatever means that is legal it may come constitutional changes should be had in Indiana. Real progress in law-making cannot be had until the constitution is broadened both in spirit and in letter to meet modern exigencies and the widened spirit of the times.

That sterling patriot, Hon. Joseph Gurney Cannon, appears to have fallen out with his old friend William H. Taft. The president went down to Springfield, Ill., to take part in the Lincoln anniversary observance and it was made the occasion for an address to the Illinois legislature in which Mr. Taft improved opportunity to strongly urge the Canadian reciprocity agreement. Your good old Uncle Joseph is not a standpatter merely in name. He is it clear to the heart of his marrow and was not going to sit still in Washington while the president went out into Cannon's own state of Illinois to slug high protection and advocate any kind of lower tariff. No, indeed. So it fell out that Uncle Joe took his pen in hand and wrote a letter to a friend in the home legislature to beware of Bill Taft and watch out what was done with protection and to have a care for the country if those Canadians ever got after us. It was a fine piece of business of the double-cross sort and it may not unreasonably be predicted that the president will begin hanging on the tinware pretty soon, a token that the titular head of the republican party has lost a friend and consoler.

Fort Wayne's police force will not be what it ought to be until it is treated as it should be. No department of the city is treated with such spirit of niggardliness and this always has been true through all administrations and of all city councils. The force is too small, it is not well enough paid, it is not properly organized and it never will be made efficient until these things are corrected. That is one thing that we believe would quickly ensue from establishment of the commission form of government here. The police force would cease to be the abused plaything of politics it is and always has been, and would be erected into something like a system and directed with sole aim to the public good.

Texas has had an abnormal season since the New Year began and down on the gulf coast where they raise the early vegetables and fruits the mercury has been a more or less steady stunt at 90 in the shade. The result is February strawberries in Fort Wayne at about half what the first consignments usually shrink the ultimate consumers' pocketbook for. We of the north can stand a lot of January and February dog days—in Texas.

The Canadian tariff agreement is going through this congress and it is going through on democratic votes. There will not be much dissent from it in the republican ranks as shown by the vote, but were it not that the democrats of the house are a unit for it, Mr. Taft would have no end of a time marshalling the republicans for the bill.

It begins to appear a deal uncertain whether he saw it or not on the fateful second instant.

HOMEWORK, A VICIOUS CIRCLE.

The child labor law in New York prevents any child under fourteen years of age from being employed in any factory, mercantile establishment, restaurant and other places of business, but no law reaches the home-working child save the compulsory education law—and that has jurisdiction over his school day only. He may work from six in the morning until school opens, and from three on to midnight, with no respite, every school day, and all day long, as many days a week as he can conveniently remain out of school without being regarded as a truant and there is no law to stop him.

"There are two points upon which the public needs to act in relation to tenement work," says Florence Kelley, secretary of the National Consumers' league, in The Survey.

"We never can know the extent of such work, and for want of knowledge we cannot safeguard either the children of the tenements or the buyers of the goods; we cannot keep the homework system and escape its inevitable consequences and accompaniments.

"The time is ripe for the sweeping prohibition of the abominable system. In the interest of the children and of the public health, it should be abolished by law without further waste of time. It spreads disease broadcast. It robs children of their childhood and their school life. It promotes congestion of population by keeping young homeworkers within walking distance of the factory. It encourages manufacturers to stay in congested districts in order to be near the cheap homeworkers. A vicious circle injurious to everyone involved in it.

"Every effort to restrict or regulate homework has ended in failure in this country and in Europe. The only rational thing left to do is to abolish it outright exactly as cows, goats, chickens, geese and pigs have been banished from the tenements."

GRAVE ROBBING FOR RANSOM.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

The breaking open of the Scott Mausoleum at Erie, and the robbery of one of the bodies there, presumably with the expectation of ransom, is an illustration of the conscienceless and deliberate crimes that seem to survive despite the general progress in civilization. We are wont at times to flatter ourselves that the age has advanced beyond the resort to crimes of deliberate cruelty and extortion. But at present the recent cases of kidnaping children for ransom, Black Hand extortions and grave-robbing warn us that there is existent the same old readiness to use the most cold-blooded means to terrify victims into paying for immunity that has inspired criminals from time immemorial.

There is a chance that in this case the grave violators have overreached themselves. The body which they have taken away was probably not the one they intended to use for extortion. If the thing can be seen clearly it may appear less important to the disembodied spirits what is done with the clay they have cast off than whether their families shall be pursued by intimidation and extortion. For the public interest it is desirable that no ransom for the remains be paid. It is plain that when all people refuse to pay such blackmail the blackmailing will cease for lack of purpose.

Every effort shoud be employed to run down and punish the extortionists. But it is time to recognize that to pay their demands is no less than a stimulus for the cowardly and criminal business.

A NATIONAL DEMAND.

(Washington Star.)

One by one those who regard the reciprocity agreement as injurious are being heard, and their representations will doubtless receive the fullest consideration. But there is no mistaking the pronounced national demand for some such departure. Outside of the special interests affected, the people recognize the economic folly of maintaining an artificial wall between two great groups of people of the same stock and occupying contiguous portions of the same land.

INSINCERE OPPOSITION.

(Toronto Globe.)

What can we think of the sincerity of those who now raise the cry that increase of trade with the United States will destroy Canadian nationality? They are ignoring the facts of history, they are traducing the honor of a loyal people, they are dragging their country's flag through the mire for a miserable party advantage. It is the time honored subterfuge of the professional loyalist, but it will fail as it deserves to fail.

SCENE AT CHINESE BANQUET IN PITTSBURG, SHOWING SOME OF PITTSBURG'S CITY OFFICIALS.

The accompanying picture shows the alleged leader of opium smugglers, Charles Boston, together with others at a Chinese banquet in Pittsburg, wherein many of Pittsburg's city officials were present. The opium smugglers are said to have operated considerably in Boston and Pittsburg. Although Pittsburg police officials have not been permitted to learn just what letters were seized by the federal authorities, they have thought it wise to declare they met Boston socially because they believed him to be a reformer bent on soothing the feuds between rival Chinese tongs.

Don't miss the Auto Show. 11-5t

Among those who attended the first session of the sale of the household property of Joseph G. Robin was a man well known in literary circles, whom no one had ever seen at a gathering of that kind. He was asked by a man who had a slight acquaintance with him if he had come as a possible buyer. "No," said the visitor, "but having read about this man as having directed many business concerns out of which he made a fortune and that while doing this he found time to edit a magazine, write novels, compose Greek poetry and devote much time to playing the violin I wanted to see what his home looked like."—New York Tribune.

THE SALE OF ALL SALES

Our Great Half-Price Sale

Began Saturday and will close Saturday night, March 4th. NINETEEN OF THE GREATEST BARGAIN DAYS EVER KNOWN IN NORTHERN INDIANA. We shall do but very little advertising. Our bargains are so much greater than ever before and there are so many more lines to be sold at half price that we are positive our friends and customers will advertise this sale about all that is necessary.

For Instance When you find we are selling Hart Schaffner & Marx suits during this sale at $7.50 and $10.00 that cost you $20.00 and $25.00 in any other store in the state, children's 25c fleece underwear at 5c a garment, men's 50c silk hose, in all colors, at 25c, all kinds of the men's Wayne Knit 25c hose at 12½c, and the finest overcoats made at half of our regular price, which is less than half the price of any other store—when you see these things with your own eyes, are you going to keep it to yourself or are you going to appreciate these things to the extent that you are willing to tell your friends? If you haven't any friends, tell the first man you see and we will guarantee HE will be your friend. Over twice as much high-grade merchandise will be sold during this sale at half price as we sold during the sale a year ago. Many more lines and much greater assortment in each line.

Our Confession In years past we have never bought one dollar's worth of clothing for our sales. You have all known our sales were "not for profit." When we invoiced last week we had but one fancy overcoat in this great stock of clothing, with two and perhaps three months of winter ahead. We had an opportunity to buy five hundred up-to-the-minute fancy overcoats with the popular "Presto" collars at ridiculously low price and we bought them for you and you will surely be glad we did. Fine imported Scotch overcoats with "Presto" collars will be sold at $9, $10 and $12.50 that are worth $20 to $28. Read the prices and come early tomorrow.

IN THE CITY'S CHURCHES

PLAGUE SPOTS OF FORT WAYNE

Rev. J. F. Vichert Preached Strong Sermon on One of Our City's Evils.

IS A DEADLY VICE

The Rev. J. F. Vichert, pastor of the First Baptist church, preached last evening on the subject, "The City's Plague Spots." The sermon is the second in a series of Sunday night talks on "The City Beautiful."

He took as his text the words from Nahum, 1:14, "I will make thy grave; for thou art vile." Referring to the decline and fall of Ninevah in the ancient days when these words were written, he spoke of conditions then at some length. In reference to local conditions he spoke in part as follows:

"That there are perilous plague spots in every city will scarcely be denied and when I come to speak of such in our own there are certain things which you at once expect me to name. They have been thrust upon out attention quite recently, but they are not new, and they are always so much in evidence that we cannot be ignorant of their presence.

"I shall achieve my purpose tonight if I can make you realize that there are evils in our midst which are perilous as any plague, and which are deadly in their menace to all civic welfare and beauty. Description of them is needless and would be painful to us all.

"Shall indecency flaunt itself in theater, or ballroom, or on the billboards? Then lust will feed and fatten on innocence and virtue. Shall the scarlet women ply her trade? Then woe to those who follow her, and woe to the city which shelters her, for her feet go down to death, and her steps take hold on hell. Shall men drink and be drunken? Then will the serpent bite, and the adder sting, and horrors multiply. There is nothing worse in hell than flows up into our life through the open saloon. These are plague spots which wherever they exist fill the air with their horrible and fatal miasma. That effort is being made to eliminate one from our city is a matter for congratulation, but why stop at one? All are dangerous and deadly.

"Our young men and maidens, in whom are our hopes, go upon the streets, and a multitude of voices assail their ears. Here speaks the wine, red, and moving itself aright. 'Come with me and I will make the eye to sparkle and the cheek to glow.' Here speak the gaudy show: 'Come with me and I will make you laugh even though you blush.' Here speaks the strange woman: 'Come with me for stolen waters are sweet, and bread eaten in secret is pleasant.' While they speak sweetly and enticingly, you know, and I know that the real message of every one of them is, 'I will make thy grave.' Every young man and woman who follows them loses the bloom and modesty, loses the light of high ideals, loses the strength of lofty resolves, loses the nobility of virtue, until all that is pure and lovely and of good report, all that makes life worth while, even the immoral soul itself, are swallowed up and lost. To such an issue the plague spots of our city hasten many a life, otherwise fair and full of promise."

TRIBUTE TO LINCOLN.

Eloquent Address Delivered by Attorney J. B. Harper.

The G. A. R. posts and military organizations of the city attended the anniversary services Sunday evening at the Grace Reformed church held in honor of the birthday of Abraham Lincoln. The service was under the auspices of the Laymen's league of the church and the address of the occasion was delivered by Attorney J. B. Harper. It was eloquent in language and thought and a grand tribute to the first of the nation's martyred presidents. The following are some of the paragraphs from the scholarly address of Mr. Harper:

"The entire civilized world knows the name of Lincoln and loves it."

"He maintained always a platform of righteousness and always advocated progressiveness."

"His great education was gained in a great measure through constant study of the bible. He was early acquainted with the bible and he learned to love God, to learn truth and righteousness."

"His was the spiritual education, learned on his mother's knee, and you may look through his entire life and find that it is characterized by steadfastness. He was always the same, always for the people and the things that were good. We love him because he first loved us."

PRETTY FAVORS FOR CUPID'S DAY

Will yo' be mah Valentine?
Pat is a delightful rogue,
And he has a charming brogue;
"Ah! me darlint," whispers he,
"Say that you'll me sweetheart be!"
Tho' modest as the violet,
You see at you my cap I set!

Unique favors for St. Valentine's day are always in demand. One of the prettiest shown in the shops is a dainty figure of a Quaker maid, her entire face hidden beneath a huge bonnet of blue. A clever little verse accompanies this.

Another novelty is a cardboard likeness of Pat, a lovable Irish terrier. He sends his valentine greetings to his numerous circle of friends. Dinah, a southern mammy, uttering a sentimental saying, looks very alluring until one sees the flatiron held ready in her hand.

There are many other equally attractive conceits for Cupid's day.

NIGHT CAP STORIES

Belated Valentine.

Beth did so wish she was grown up, specially on St. Valentine day, because then nice men who come to call in automobiles and carry big boxes of chocolates intheir pockets, send the beautifulest flowers, red and white and yellow and all colors, tied with nice shiny ribbons or thin cobweby stuff. Beth knew, for didn't they call on big siser Mary, and didn't she (Beth) get the fattest chocolates in the box every time? And the cobweby stuff made the stunningest party dresses for Belinda Doll.

"When I get grown up I'm going to marry Ethel's Hal, so he'll send me valentine flowers," Beth confided to Bundy over their afternoon lunch of graham wafers and milk.

"Huh," scoffed that youthful center of world wisdom, "you're just a baby, and it'll be as far as from here to the moon before you're growed up.

Brothers are so uncomfortable just when little sisters are having the nicest of make-believes.

"I don't care if it is to the moon," Beth said stoutly. "Hal said he'd wait for me to grow up anyway. Sister won't care, she can get another Hal. I just do want a flower valentine."

When Beth wanted anything so very much that she left her third wafer for Buddy, you may be sure she wanted it heaps and heaps.

"Children, come down; mother has a surprise for you," called the gentle voice up the stairway.

When mother talked that way, with the little catch of excitement in her throat, there was sure to be a treat—ice cream or company, or a ride with Uncle John in the park.

"We're coming, mother," Beth and Buddy shouted, and in the general confusion Bud accomplished a descent via the bannister, a journey excusable only under the gravest provocation.

"Dearies, Uncle John wants to have you to his house for dinner," said mother. Uncle John's for dinner meant chocolate cake and oranges, and afterward the most fun in Uncle John's big library, where gnomes and fairies and queer folks flitted about in the shadows of the big fireplace while Uncle John told all about them and where they lived in palaces, and tree tops and caves of crystal. Is it any wonder that Beth and Bud jumped and shouted and almost turned over the parlor cabinet with joy?

"Hurry, my darlings," warned mother, hustling them into their coats. "James just has time to catch Uncle John's train." And quicker than you could say "Scat!" Beth and Bud were huddled in one corner of Uncle John's red automobile, all tucked round with a sure enough bearskin.

Mother had scarcely begun to straighten out the rugs after Beth's and Buddy's dancing feet when the bell began a mad tinkling. When she opened the door who do you suppose was there? Why, Beth herself, and she hadn't gone to Uncle John's at all.

"Mother, oh, mother, I forgot Mr. and Mrs. Wren Bird's supper, and I had to come back, and James scolded and drove on," she sobbed between breaths.

"My precious daughter," was all mother said as she folded Beth in her soft, warm arms. Mothers are not like Jameses, they always understand. Any one could see Mr. and Mrs. Wren Bird must have their supper, even if it cost chocolate cake and Uncle John stories.

Mr. and Mrs. Wren Bird were waiting on Beth's windowsill and chattering away at the delay of their evening meal. Beth had coaxed them to spend the winter in their cosey little nest home up under the eaves. All the rest of their kinfolk were wintering in the south, where the sun shines and where birdies don't have to dig under the snow to find worms and berries and things. After Beth had invited them to stay she never forgot the obligation and always before she ate there was a spread of crumbs for the Wren family. Tonight there was even cake crumbs for dessert.

It was dreadful lonesome after dinner, though. Beth almost wished the Wren birds had gone south after all. Chocolate cake at Uncle John's was different from any other cake, and the gnomes and fairies in Uncle John's library made your eyes open wide and your heart beat and—well, you just loved them, that's all. And then, just to make it lonesomer, Hal came to take big sister out to a play, and, sure enough, he brought a valentine bunch of violets, like nothing so much as an overgrown purple scented cabbage. Being a little girl is awful hard to bear sometimes.

"I wonder if the chocolate icing was very thick," Beth thought, after mother had tucked her in and she was off to Shuteye Town.

"Well, anyway, I fed the Wren birds—wish I had a flower valentine like—"

"Dearie, wake up and look out on your windowsill. Some one is waiting there for you." Beth opened two brown eyes, caught mother's merry twinkle and scampered out of bed. And whom do you suppose she found right there outside the window, standing first on one foot and then on the other? Why Mrs. Wren Bird, sure as anything. You could guess and guess, but you'd never guess why Mrs. Wren Bird was waiting there for Beth. Beth didn't guess either, until she opened the window just a teenty-weenty bit, and there, right at Mrs. Wren Bird's feet was a great big buttery yellow dandelion flower. Yes there was, really, and in the middle of winter, too. Mrs. Wren just chirped good morning, held her head sidewise the cunningest, and flew up to her nest home, leaving the big buttery dandelion for Beth.

"Oh, mother!" Beth whispered, eyes bright with joy tears and soft arms around mother's dear neck, "I believe Mr. Wren Bird liked his supper so much last night that he flew away down south just to get me my flower valentine."

Be Sure and See the Words "PIANOLA PIANO"

If it is the Pianola Piano that most people have in mind when they set out to buy a player piano.

For this is the only instrument of this type that is indorsed by the world's greatest musicians. And the Pianola Piano far outsells all others.

Yet—through a mere confusion of terms—it sometimes happens that people who think they are buying the Pianola Piano actually secure, instead, only an inferior imitation.

The Cause for Confusion

The terms "Pianola" and "Pianola Piano" have become so commonly known—so widely accepted—so standardized—that many people suppose "Pianola" to mean any piano player and "Pianola Piano" to mean any piano with a player built-into it.

Very few of the Pianola Piano imitators care to correct the mistake.

Learn the Truth Now—"Pianola Piano" does not mean any player piano. These two words are a trade mark—the name of one instrument made by only one company, The Aeolian Company, on sale at only one place in Fort Wayne, Aeolian Warerooms.

The Pianola Piano affords musical values, and musical enjoyment impossible with any other instrument.

It is not a Pianola Piano unless the words "Pianola Piano" are actually on it.

MEDAL WINNERS AT SPELLING

The Misses Edith McGonagle, Ella Hemrick and Eulila Martin Successful.

OTHER PRIZES WON

The medal winners in the spelling contest of the scholars of the district schools of Allen county, held in this city and which did not close until 6 o'clock Saturday evening, were as follows:

Gold Medal—Miss Edith McGonagle, school No. 8, Monroe township, B. F. Clem, teacher.

Silver Medal—Miss Ella Hemrick, school No. 1, Springfield township, Miss Emma Walter, teacher.

Bronze Medal—Miss Eulila Martin, school No. 8, Jackson township, Miss Elsie Alleger, teacher.

The other prize winners, in the order in which they are named, and the prizes given, were as follows:

Miss Margaret Costello, toilet set, given by Dallas F. Green.

Rupert Murphy, $25 phonograph, given by Indiana Furniture Co.

Miss Gerhart Wyss, $7.50 set of books, given by W. C. Baade.

Evangeline Fisher, $7.00 hand bag, given by Wolf & Dessauer.

Miss Ethel Van Hoozen, $5.50 fountain pen, given by the D. & N. Pharmacy.

Elsie Fleck, $5.00 pair of shoes, given by the Scroggy Shoe Co.

Goldie Chaney, $3.00 umbrella, given by Dukes-Rose-Schirmeyer Co.

Emma Helne, $3.00 vase, given by M. F. Kaag & Sons.

Milo Clark, $2.00 in silver, given by County Superintendent Henry G. Felger.

Albert Fahlsing, $1.50 whip, given by A. C. Rose and one year's subscription to the Fort Wayne Weekly Sentinel, given by E. A. K. Hackett.

Ethel Waters, $2.00 mirror, given by Seavey Hardware Co.

Over 14,000 words were pronounced during the contest and seven hours consumed, making the second ordeal the contestants had gone through, the preceding Saturday, having left standing the twelve who entered the contest of the last Saturday.

Miss Hemrich, the second prize winner, went down on the word fowling-piece, spelling it with an "u" instead of a "w."

Miss Martin, the third prize winner, went down on "Adirondack." She spelled it correctly, but failed to use the capital "A," in commencing it, an error which sent down a number of the best spellers.

The county school superintendent was elated over the skill displayed by the contestants. All are deserving of great credit. The three medal winners will be in the district contest to be held in this city on Saturday of this week at which Prof. H. E. Coe, of Auburn, will be the pronouncer. Superintendent Felger feels confident the Allen county spellers will give a good account of themselves.

Miss McGonagle, the first prize winner, was the winner in the county contest of last year. She is 15 years of age. The trustee of her township, E. M. Johnson, was present during the entire contest, evincing a great interest in it, as, in fact, did other trustees and the teachers and parents of the spellers.

DENOUNCE ROAD LEGISLATION.

Allen County Farmers Hold Meeting and Protest Against Pending Law.

Road legislation now pending before the state legislation, as introduced by the Indiana Good Roads association, was strongly denounced at a meeting of Allen county farmers held in the assembly room of the court house Saturday afternoon. Those present at the meeting included road supervisors and ex-trustees.

W. Bair was elected chairman of the meeting and presented data showing the proposed law would be a disadvantage to the farmer and an unnecessary burden to the state, and that the farmers would never consent to it. He also stated that the present law could be amended in such a manner as to embody many improvements. The superintendent would be appointed instead of elected under the proposed law, and this is in direct opposition to the wishes of the people, who bear the expense of the roads.

A number of farmer's institutes will be held throughout the county next Saturday and the road legislation will be taken up more in detail.

BIT PREACHER'S THUMB.

Eli Hastings Attacks Rev. D. E. Hively at Albion.

Albion, Ind., Feb. 13.—When Rev. D. E. Hively, pastor of the Jefferson Union United Brethren church, refused today to vacate a residence property to which Eli Hastings asserts title, Hastings attacked the preacher. The latter defended himself, but in the clash Hastings bit Rev. Mr. Hively's thumb in painful fashion. Hastings was placed under arrest and taken before Justice Trump. He asked for change of venue and the case was sent to Justice Hursey, in York township, for hearing Friday. The property in dispute is in the name of John Hastings, a brother of Eli, and the pastor asserted his determination to remain by virtue of having paid rent to John Hastings.

THIS IS VALENTINE SILK WEEK

A Silk Event of More Than Ordinary Importance

The Silk department officially opens the spring season this week with a captivating display of Valentine's beautiful Shedwater Foulards. It will be Valentine Week in all its loveliness, for by a peculiar coincidence of the calendar, the season and the silks are intimately associated.

Valentine Silks are featured this week by leading stores all over the country, and we have the exclusive sale for them in this city.

The unusual and particular features of these Valentine Foulards are their spot-proof and water shedding qualities. How many a pretty frock has been utterly ruined by an unexpected shower! Valentine's Shedwater Foulards shed water instead of absorbing it, made so by a special process that protects the surface of the silk absolutely.

While the particular merit of Valentine's Foulard lies in their spot-proofness, there is also the added charm of the exquisite patterns and colorings, which fashion experts have pronounced to be by far the most beautiful ever shown. Every pattern is exclusive—new block designs, dots of all sizes, pin stripes and new border effects which are more sought after than ever. The cost of these beautiful, practical silk is no more than of the ordinary sorts. Every woman is cordially invited to inspect this special display of Valentine Foulards this week.

FAILS IN EFFORT TO STOP SUICIDE

Mrs. W. F. Hoke Knocks Drug from Husband's Hands But Too Late.

DIES 2 HOURS LATER

In a fruitless effort to prevent her husband from committing suicide Saturday night, Mrs. William F. Hoke, residing at 1315 Clay street, knocked a bottle of poison from his hands, but her effort was too late. Hoke had gulped down half an ounce of carbolic acid and expired two hours later at the Lutheran hospital without having regained consciousness.

Hoke was 36 years of age, a carpenter, and is said to have gone home Saturday evening in an intoxicated condition. While members of the family declined to express an opinion as to the cause of the suicide, neighbors are inclined to the belief that there were words between them as the result of the man's condition. When Mrs. Hoke saw her husband raise the bottle to his lips she knocked it from his hands, but not until after the greater part of the poison had passed his lips. Hoke had been in the employ of Contractor Henry Grotheltman. Coroner Kesler was called in the case. The remains will be shipped to Upper Sandusky, the former home of the suicide.

PAN-AMERICAN CONFERENCE.

Commercial Congress to Be Held in Washington.

Washington, Feb. 13.—Many delegates to the Pan-American commercial conference, which is to occupy the entire week, arrived here today and indications are for one of the most impressive gatherings of commercial interests ever held in this country.

Representatives from leading manufacturing, exporting and importing establishments in all parts of the United States are in attendance. Many Latin-American diplomats and consular officers have accepted invitations to participate in the general discussion of the conference. The steps to be taken by the business interests of America in preparing for the opening of the Panama canal and conditions surrounding the exchange of commerce between the two continents are subjects which the conference will take up in its daily sessions.

AT THE MAJESTIC

IS COMING TO FORT WAYNE.

"The Country Boy" Has Won Way to Success in New York.

(From New York Herald, Aug. 31.)

"The Country Boy" came to New York last night and won a way right from the start. It's new comedy by Mr. Edgar Selwyn, which Mr. Henry B. Harris produced in the Liberty theater, and it proved again that a good actor can write a good play.

It's about a country boy who does not "git along" in his home town up the state and comes to New York to "make good." He gets a bad start, and a pretty chorus girl does not help him any. He is about to turn on the gas when a sterling newspaper man reaches out and helps him, and they and a reformed ticket speculator go back to the boy's old home to work out their salvation by running a newspaper, and they do it, too.

Mr. Selwyn knows his country, but he knows his city better. He has sketched Broadway in a way that is hard to beat. His theatrical boarding house is true to life and vastly amusing. The dinner itself was worth a dollar, and another for the rest of the play is cheap.

The cast is an excellent one. Mr. Forest Winant was the country boy, and he was manly and sincere. But it was Mr. Robert McWade, Jr., as the newspaper man who saved him, who won the honors of the night. His was an admirable performance. Mrs Stuart Robson was the keeper of a thetrical boarding house to the life. Mr. Arthur Shaw, as a ticket speculator whose good fortune began with a "hunch" on Friday, the thirteenth of the month, has many of the funniest lines and made a real hit all his own. The actress was neatly played by Miss Willette Kershaw.

New York is sure to like "The Country Boy," and, as the politicians say, "as New York goes so goes the state."

"The Country Boy" with its great New York cast comes to the Majestic next Saturday, matinee and night.

Children's Matinee for "Daniel Boone"

The historical pioneer drama, "Daniel Boone on the Trail," will be the attraction at the Majestic Wednesday, matinee and night. To properly produce this play a den of wolves and a band of Sioux Indians are carried. These are used as a free street feature on the day of the show. The play is presented by clever and capable performers.

There should be at least two or three Globe Wernicke Sectional Bookcases in every boy's room, to encourage a desire for a growing library. You can get them at Foster's.

"Chick" Carr, of the El Venzos, who dropped into the second league after the Walkover team of the first had blown, is two points ahead of any of the men, but he has taken part in only nine games.

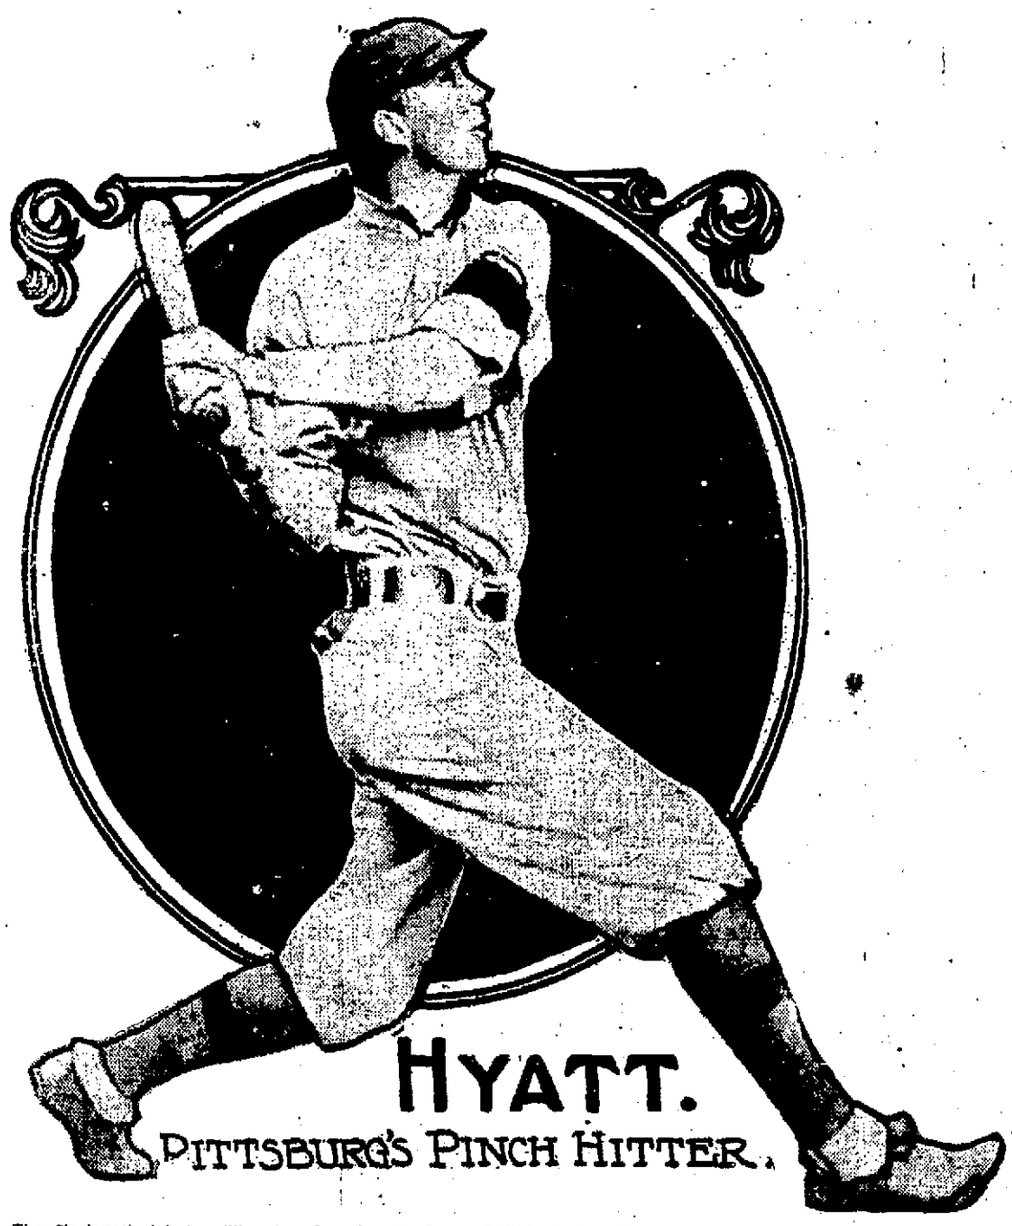
PATTERSON-FLETCHER CO.

CLARK GRIFFITH SAYS HE CAN USE HYATT AND REFUSES TO WAIVE CLAIM TO PLAYER



The Cincinnati club is willing to take Utility Man Ham Hyatt off the hands of the Pirates. According to reports from Redtown, Barney Dreyfuss does not desire the services of the champion pinch hitter any longer and has asked for waivers. Griffith, the Red leader, however, refuses to waive, for he is in need of outfielders. Griffith, it is said, does not think Hyatt is in the same class with some of the star outfielders in the big league, but he is better than the average minor leaguer just breaking into the game, and for that reason will take him, provided Pittsburg does not withdraw the waiver. That Red outfield of Bescher, Bates and Mike Mitchell is good enough for any club, but in the event of one of three getting hurt or being chased to the clubhouse after losing out in an argument with an umpire, Griffith has no real good man to hasten to the rescue. Hence, his willingness to take Hyatt. It is said President Dreyfuss could get $3,000 for Hyatt's release from a class A league.

IS THIS THE SAME?

Who is this "Tex" Meyers that Terre Haute has signed to play first base with a view of turning him over to Fort Wayne?

Surely it can't be the same "Tex" who carried a can out of Zanesville a few seasons ago? This Zanesville fellow was an outfielder, first baseman and a catcher, but he didn't show Central league class and he was fired a short time after the season opened.

There may be another "Tex" Myers on the same principle that there are a dozen or more "Cy" Youngs, or it may be that the Zanesville man has come into his own. It took John Somerlott a long time to reach the majors and it may be that Myers is traveling the same route.

Pickups From the Sport World

Chattanooga team has purchased Outfielder Cannell of the Philadelphia Nationals. Pitcher Mayberry was also secured from Cleveland.

Billy Evans, of Louisville, Ky., has been signed to play second base for the Wheeling team. He was out of the game most of last season.

Frank Norcum, the old Evansville outfielder, has applied to Roy Montgomery for a job. He managed the Augusta team of the South Atlantic league last season.

Ralph Moss, 20 years old and "an exceptionally fine infielder," according to advance press notices, has been signed by Eddie Wheeler to play with Terre Haute.

Dr. Harley Parker has ordered his Grand Rapids players to report on April 1 and will have about twenty-five in his squad. He will book some games with the clubs of the Michigan State league.

Tom Jones, manager for Ad Wolgast, bet $500 that Knockout Brown would never sign an agreement to meet his man again. The two have been matched to meet in New York and Jones had to cash in.

Jack Thoney is willing to play first base, act as water boy, or even to carry bats for the Red Sox, he says. Thoney was the star of the outfield when he was with the Boston team last, but his arm went back on him. He says he believes that his arm is plenty strong enough for him to play an infield position now.

On the recommendation of "Cy" Young of the Cleveland Naps, who knows a baseball pitcher when he sees one, as he has been in active harness for twenty-one years, Ross K. Bair, a Guernsey county, O., boy has been signed to play with Youngstown in the O.-P. league during the coming season, and it is said there is no doubt that he will make good.

Pitcher Veasey, formerly of the Zanesville club, and purchased from that team by the Cleveland club, was missed when the contracts were sent out from Cleveland to Naps. Manager Roy Montgomery will take up the matter with Cleveland as Veasey has written him concerning it.

A. G. Spalding, the old-time baseball player, said recently that when a committee went to Springfield, Ill., to notify Abraham Lincoln that he had been nominated for president, Lincoln was taking a little exercise playing ball in a lot not far from his home, and said he would join the committee just as soon as he had made one more hit.

President Frank Farrell of the New York Americans announced that Manager Chase had traded Third Baseman "Jimmy" Austin to St. Louis for Infielder Roy Hartzell and that the local club had sold Second Baseman Frank Laporte to the same team. Hartzell has been with the St. Louis team for five years and during his American league career has batted at a .242 clip.

Eugene Elliott, a third baseman who was purchased from the McKeesport club of the Ohio-Pennsylvania league last fall by President Frank Farrell, has signed his contract for the season of 1911 with the New York Americans. It is manager Chase's plan to have Elliott lead off for the local club next season. Elliott's record last year was: Batting, .290; fielding, .952.

Stremmel was turned over to them by the St. Louis Browns and he showed well for the time he worked with the club.

Riley was with Columbus during the greater part of last season and is regarded as plenty fast enough for Central league company. He is fast on his feet and a good hitter. If he is secured it will go a great way toward building up the outer works which are sadly in need of repair. The pitching department will also be greatly strengthened by the addition of Stremmel.

SENDING OUT CONTRACTS.

Wheeling, W. Va., Feb. 13.—Manager Roy Montgomery is busy getting his men lined up for the coming season and has sent out contracts to all the men under reserve, including the seven bought from the McKeesport team. He is trying to arrange a deal for a class A pitcher whose name he will not give out until he has completed the negotiations.

The men who have had contracts mailed to them are:

First Basemen — Servatius, Mason, Schultz, Carnes.

Second Basemen — Lewis, W. Gray, Evans.

Third Basemen—Graf, Kinsely.

Shortstops—Jewell, King.

Outfielders—C. Gray, Donahue, Tate, Osbourne, Sentz, Durham.

Catchers—Blinke, Welcher.

Pitchers — Troy, Beatty, Richardson, Doak, Garton, Jerger, Humphries, Mooney, Cook, Johnson, Druhot, Bier and Stark.

Will Hal Chase Make Good As Pilot of the Yanks?

"HAL" CHASE

How will Hal Chase perform as manager of the Yankees? This question was first asked last fall when Hal assumed the managerial role of the Yankees at the time George Stallings was fired. Gotham fans have been asking it all winter and when the season starts it will again be one of the important queries in all American league cities.

It will be either make or break for Chase this season. If the Yankees are in the fight all the way New York fans will put the young manager on a pedestal and do him honor such as was never before accorded a major league manager. But should the Yankees drop, the entire blame will be placed on Chase. Should he fail this season it will probably be his last chance, for he will undoubtedly be then rated with Lajoie—one of the greatest players at his position, but not one with whom the management of a club should be entrusted.

There seems to be little reason however why Chase should fail. Last fall in the short time which he had charge of the Yankees he pulled them ahead of the Tigers into second place and many think they would have given the Athletics a good run for the pennant had he been in charge all season.

Chase had the courage of his own convictions. Some of his ideas are unique but he is putting them into execution. The spring training trip of the Yankees will be different from any ever taken by a major league club. For two weeks at the training camp Chase will not let the veterans see a baseball, but will make them confine their training to outdoor exercise. He will play no favorites. This was demonstrated by the manner in which he has already shifted his team.

But whether he possesses all those little intricacies that must be possessed by a manager in order to get the best out of the players and keep harmony on the team is still to be found out.

COR. COLUMBIA AND CLINTON STS.

THE WAY PAVED FOR PROHIBITION

Such is the Belief of Mrs. Stanley, State Officer of the W. C. T. U.

SPEAKS IN THIS CITY

Mrs. Elizabeth Stanley, of Liberty, Ind., the vice president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Indiana, delivered three temperance addresses in this city Sunday, speaking at the Grace Reformed church in the morning, at the Free Methodist church in the evening, and at a mass meeting in the First Baptist church in the afternoon.

MRS. ELIZABETH STANLEY,

Vice President of Indiana W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Stanley is one of the national lecturers for the W. C. T. U. and one of the most forcible and eloquent women speakers for this cause. She rides in any sort of band wagon that will aid in wiping out the saloon or crushing the traffic in intoxicating drinks. She is an ardent advocate of prohibition and also of county option.

"We realize that these are dark days to many temperance people in Indiana," she said. "But it is the darkness of today that brings the greater victory tomorrow. We are going to win this fight against the organized legalized liquor traffic in Indiana. If we can roll away the stone of liquor traffic, with the government seal of the law, from the door of the sepulcher of the common people, the W. C. T. U. will have accomplished the greatest victory the world has known in recent years. The people of old had the same trouble with the slave trade that we are having with the liquor trade and we women stand on temperance where Lincoln stood on the slave traffic and I am sure if Lincoln were here today he would be with us."

While in the main her argument was for state wide prohibition as the solution of the evils resulting from the liquor traffic she showed in her address in the afternoon at the First Baptist church that the county option law which had been in force in Indiana for two years was the best and most effective law for the cause of temperance that ever has been passed in the state and cited in proof of it the conditions existing in the seventy counties that had taken advantage of its provisions.

The people in these counties, she said, had been benefited by it. They were happier and more prosperous. Business had not been injured. Crime and poverty had decreased. Taxes had been lowered. If in any one of these counties taxes had not been reduced it was because of some great public improvements that had been carried on, such as the building of a courthouse, or other work requiring the expenditure of a large amount of money.

The theory advanced by the liquor men that the abolishment of the saloon took trade away from the town she denounced as false. The only trade that it took away from the "dry" town and took to the "wet" town was the trade in "wet" goods. The legitimate was not injured. On the contrary, it was better because the men who before that had spent their earnings in the saloon now spent their money for the necessaries of life. In truth the town was benefited because of its being "dry."

The fact that "blind tigers" existed in the counties where the saloons had been abolished, she said, was no argument for the return of the saloon. "Blind Tigers" exist in towns and cities where the saloon is allowed. They thrive even here in Fort Wayne. And, she asserted, they would thrive more than ever under the high license law, the Proctor bill, for many of the men forced to close their bars would not go out of the business of selling intoxicating liquor.

"If the saloons are to be forced on us," said Mrs. Stanley, "the model saloon that the brewers are going to give us will be worse in its resulting evil, even though it may be conducted along legal lines, as it is claimed it will be, than the low license saloons we now have, for they will reap their harvest from our best young men, the flower of the youth of our country.

"I will tell you what this Proctor bill will do, this bill that forces the saloon back upon the people of seventy counties in the state that voted it out," continued the speaker. "It is going to be the boomerang that will bring statewide prohibition."

And then she spoke of the injustice in the Proctor law of throwing the burden of keeping dry counties dry upon the temperance people, the making of them automatically wet. This burden, in all justice, should have been thrown upon the friends of the saloons. This high-handed method of thwarting the expressed wish of the people paves the way to state-wide prohibition. "And it is going to come," she said.

Mrs. Stanley during last week spoke in four other towns in this county, Maysville, Grabill, Hoagland and Woodburn. She will be in Grant and Wabash counties this week and next assisting the anti-saloon people in the option campaigns being held there, the election occurring on the 28th of the present month. She believes both of these counties will remain "dry." During her stay in the city she was a guest at the home of Mrs. N. W. Bloom, in Lakeside. She came here at the request of the ladies of the W. C. T. U. and the meetings held in this county were under the auspices of that organization.

A combined sash lift and ventilator is a new device for securing a proper ventilation of the room without a draft and without the use of unseemly bits of apparatus attached to the windows or sash. This device consists of two parts, each of metal. A suitable opening is made in the lower rail of the sash and one of these pieces secured inside and another outside. When in place in this manner, the two parts comprise the complete ventilator and sash. There is a valve operated from the inside by which the entrance of the air is under perfect control.

"You remember," said a friend, "I have been telling you about the rabbit and how important he has become as a source of meat supply since the prices of other meats soared so high. Hundreds of thousands of them must have been used for food in this state during the winter."—Columbus (O.) Dispatch.

TOO GRASPING.

"The late Eli Perkins," said a magazine editor, "had an apt way of driving home his points with little stories.

"Perkins once offered me a sketch at a bargain price. I accepted the sketch eagerly, and I asked for more at the same figure.

"But Perkins, laughing sourly, shook his head.

"He said I reminded him of a tramp to whom a genial old lady gave a nickel, saying:

"'Here, my good man, take this nickel and drink my health in a glass of beer.'

"'Thank you, ma'am,' said the tramp. 'But you look so infirm, hadn't I better drink too beers?'"

Eggplant red is the plain English name of the color aubergine. Modish milliners like to use French words and phrases. Vert chasseur sounds deliciously mysterious, but it's merely hunter's green. Natuler bleu is the blue obvious in the pictures of the great artist Nattier, lie de vin signifies wine dregs, and bleu corbeau raven's wing. Rose saumonee is salmon pink, and bois de rose rosewood; turquoise verdie is turquoise turned green, and chevette is shrimp pink; taupe is mole color, and acajou mahogany.—New York Press.

A DRY WASH.

Representative Livingston, of Georgia, who, disgusted at the bath tub debate in the house recently, proposed that a little money might be made by renting the bath tubs out, said recently, apropos of this subject:

"We are now a good deal like Bill Spriggins on a zero morning.

"Bill's valet entered his bedroom one January morning and said with a shiver:

"'Will you take your bath hot or cold, sir?'

"'Thank you,' said Bill; 'I'll take it for 'granted.'"

UNCONSCIOUS ON RAILWAY TRACKS

Joseph Garrett Found at Valparaiso With Serious Injuries.

HURT BY TRAIN ON PENNSYLVANIA

"Bob" Cran Surprised and Honored by Party of His Shop Friends.

Joseph Garrett was found lying at the side of the Pennsylvania tracks in Valparaiso at 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning in an unconscious condition. He was taken to the Christian hospital, in Valparaiso, where he had not regained consciousness at noon today, though his injuries are not of a fatal character, the attending surgeon says. In the pockets of the unconscious man were $9.25 in cash and a partly filled bottle of whisky. There were no letters or other means of identification found until last night, when his name and place of former residence, New York, were found on a card. Garrett is a mulatto, about twenty-six years old and was supposed to be en route to Gary or Indiana Harbor in search of work when he was found. The left side of his face is badly bruised and there is a fracture of the skull, indicating that he either fell off a train or was struck while walking on the tracks. He worked awhile in Auburn and Garrett and was in Fort Wayne last Saturday. He had on some clothing bearing the name of the Dukes-Rose-Schirmeyer company and a pair of shoes which had been purchased at the Reed Shoe store in this city.

HONOR OLD COMRADE.

"Bob" Cran Unexpected Host of Shopmates.

The home of Robert Cran was the scene of mirth and good fellowship Saturday evening, the occasion being a surprise in honor of his birth anniversary. The guests were Mr. Cran's fellow workmen at the Bass foundry, some of whom have been associated with him in that capacity for nearly fifty years. After the excitement incident to the surprise had subsided, one of the guests stepped up to Mr. Cran and in behalf of the "boys" presented him with a magnificent silk umbrella as a token of the esteem they entertained for him and also as a memento of the anniversary. Cards and music were followed by an elegant supper served by Mrs. Cran and Miss Belle Cran. Among the guests, all of whom were Bass shopmen, were J. Stein, G. Beidenweig, J. Everding, William Peck, Charles Doehrman, William Enz, Frank Druhot, William Nohrwald, Charles Linnemeyer, E. Bleich, A. Potts, J. Stevens, William Luttmann, J. Merriman, O. Weyers, L. Mertz, William Cousar and Charles Cousar. Mr. Cran is one of the oldest, in point of service, at the Bass foundry, having been employed there continually nearly a half century. For a number of years he was foreman of the car wheel department, retiring to take up less responsible duties two or three years ago. Mr. Cran is well known outside of foundry circles also, having been interested in municipal affairs for a number of years and serving his ward—the Sixth—in the council two or three terms.

CHAINED CAR TO TRACKS.

Federal Judge John E. Sater, in a suit wherein the Pullman company is plaintiff and William Limke, former sheriff of Licking county, Ohio, is the defendant, has decreed that when a Pullman car has interstate passengers, interfering with its movements is interference with interstate commerce. A year ago Sheriff Limke chained a Pullman car to the tracks in the B. & O. yards in Newark, O., to enforce settlement of a claim held by a traveling man, which involved $20,000. Sheriff Limke stood guard with a revolver over the car to prevent the Pullman employes from cutting the chains. The case attracted a great deal of attention from legal circles and railway people because of the question of jurisdiction involved.

DIVISION STOREKEEPERS HERE.

This morning the storekeepers from the divisions which go to make up the Pennsylvania northwest system commenced a meeting in the committee rooms which will probably continue until next Saturday. C. P. Cherry, division storekeeper of this end of the line, is the chairman of the meeting and Will Aumann is the secretary. The participants in the discussions are C. A. Jackson, Allegheny; Paul Zimmerman, Chicago; W. P. Weschler, Ma-

W. P. Thomas, Toledo, and C. Blessing,

WILL ATTEND INVESTIGATION.

Engineer W. S. Slagle and Fireman C. H. Conley, who were in the Pennsylvania collision at Nevada, Ohio, two months ago, will testify before the Ohio railroad commission, which will hold an inquiry into the cause of the wreck Tuesday at Crestline. Fireman H. R. Spore, the only other occupant of the cabs of the colliding engines who survived the accident, will also appear before the commission Tuesday. Each of these three men was severely injured, but has nearly recovered and will soon report for duty.

CALLERS ARE TRANSFERRED.

The headquarters of the enginemen callers for the Pennsylvania and the G. R. & I. have been changed from the east yard office to the office building at the round house. These callers used to work directly out of the round house office, being changed to the east yards in 1903, when the new round house was opened to business.

SHOP LEAGUE MEETING.

WRIST BROKEN BY FALL.

Eugene C. Potter, employed at the Fort Wayne Electric works, had the misfortune to fall Saturday and severely injure one of his wrists and will be unable to work for awhile. It is believed one of the bones was fractured.

AGREE TO TRACK ELEVATION.

The Nickel Plate is a party in a track elevation deal in Chicago which will cost upwards of $10,000,000. Other lines jointly interested with the Nickel Plate are the Illinois Central, the Rock Island and the Western Indiana.

Y. M. C. A. MEETING TONIGHT.

The board of management of the Railroad Y. M. C. A. will hold a meeting this evening. It is simply to transact routine business and nothing of great importance will come before it, it is believed.

The Fort Wayne Federation of Labor will hold a meeting this evening, the first in three weeks. Important matters will come up for consideration.

On the absentee lists at the Pennsylvania shops this morning were the following new names: Dennis Collins, L. E. Rehling, C. Hess, Nicholas Merz and Frank Hughes. All are sick.

Gang Foreman H. L. Collins, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop, and E. Finnerty, of the same shop, are on duty after an absence, the latter of four weeks.

Machinist and Mrs. E. B. Hughes, who came here from Oelwein, Iowa, recently, are now residing at 124 West DeWald street. Mr. Hughes is employed in the Pennsylvania shops.

Chief Car Inspector Adam LaMar, of the Pennsylvania, is at Pullman on business connected with the building of a magnificent car that is soon to be turned out of those shops and sent east.

Yardmaster C. F. Malcolm, of the Wabash, was summoned to Chicago yesterday by news of the serious illness of his mother, who has been ailing for several months and who suffered a turn for the worse.

Supt. J. C. Sullivan, Trainmaster C. E. Crane and Traveling Engineer A. F. King, of the Wabash, personally directed the movements of the special train which brought President Taft and party from Hugo, where No. 28 left them, to this city at noon yesterday.

Supt. W. M. Wardrop, of the Pennsylvania, is visiting his family and looking after railway business in Pittsburg today and tomorrow. He will return here Wednesday morning.

Frank Hickman and Charles Archer, stenographers, the former for O. C. Wright and the latter in the motive power office, are off duty today on account of sickness.

C. H. Tonsing, stenographer to Supt. B. H. Hudson, of the G. R. & I., resumed work this morning, after an absence of a week, during which he was married to a most estimable lady.

W. L. Harris, a Pennsylvania yard brakeman, is sick and off duty. Brakeman O. L. Merriman, of the same road, is off duty as the result of injuries sustained last week.

Engineer James Bell, who for some time has been "taming" engines for the Wabash in this city, went to Montpelier, Ohio, this morning for a short visit with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Keeler are entertaining a baby boy, who arrived at their home yesterday. Mr. Keeler is a clerk at the Wabash master mechanic's office.

The Pennsylvania has put seven or eight of the recently promoted engineers back in the ranks, on account of the falling off in traffic. About an equal number of firemen were affected by the change.

This morning the Bass boiler shop loaded an immense galvanizing tank on a car for shipment to Kendallville. The consignee is the Flint & Wallen Manufacturing company. This tank is constructed of steel and weighs 70,000 pounds.

John Rupp, T. H. Beuter, R. W. Shaw, F. X. Miller and C. G. Nern resumed work at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop this morning. Mr. Shaw was sick two weeks and each of the others was sick one week.

William Wehrs, assistant foreman at the Pennsylvania planing mills, is all "puffed up" with pride and happiness, the occasion being the birth of a grandson yesterday. The parents of the little feller are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Broslus, of Cass street.

Machinist Hugh P. Hogan, who is now employed in the Pennsylvania shops at Chicago, was the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Hogan, over Sunday. Hugh worked in the shops in this city up to a few weeks ago.

The movemet of freight over the Nickel Plate is still very heavy, although traffic on some of the other roads has fallen off. On the Nickel Plate, however, the business is up to the capacity of the equipment, every engine and caboose being constantly employed.

THE ISLE OF IVIZA.

One of the Balearics Whose History Has Never Been Written.

(Chamber's Journal.)

With regard to Iviza, the third in importance of the Balearic isles, which lie midway between Spain and Africa, its complete history has never been and never will be written. From the fragmentary records existent one gathers that from earliest days occupation of the lovely and fertile island was hotly contested. Chaldeans, Egyptians, Phoenicians, Romans, Greeks, Vandals, Saracens and Moors fought for its possession. Since the Aragonese invasion of the thirteenth century Iviza has belonged to Spain.

They say there are ten men for every woman in Iviza, and the aspect of the roads on a sunny April morning inclined us to believe the report, for from every direction came fine, strapping fellows moving in droves. In striking contrast to the expensive attire of the women the men's dress appeared designed to accentuate their natural slimness.

The trousers of richly colored velvet of plush fitted closely to the limbs except at the ankles, where they spread widely, while their further adornments were gaily-hued shirts or short full blouse jackets and bright sashes. The popular large felt hats were lavishly adorned with gold cords, and in addition to one necktie for use it was customary to add a second and even a third for show.

Some of the women rode mules, sitting perched high on a pile of sheepskins, their multi-colored petticoats billowing about their neat ankles; others were packed closely into open carts that had cushions placed low on either side of their sagging floor matting. With its flippant hues and staid cut the native dress was a bewildering combination of garishness and sobriety.

As the morning advanced a moving throng resplendent in color crowded the market place. Girls temporarily free from their chaperons were parading in decorous rows, their hands, holding pocket handkerchiefs heavily edged with crochet lace, sedately crossed over their short but voluminous green silk aprons.

It was perhaps only to be expected that wherever we saw a bevy of girls a corresponding cluster of men would be at hand. Yet we rarely saw them address one another. The modern etiquette of a rustic courtship in Iviza is clearly defined. A plentitude of suitors being assured, it is the maiden who makes the selection. The admirers of a marriageable girl wait for her outside the church door on Sunday, and when she leaves mass, the one who has the prior claim presents himself and walks beside her for the first portion of the homeward journey. Then at a given point, or within a stated time limit, he yields place to the second, and the second to a third until the number is exhausted.

If any suitor seeks to trangress the unwritten law pistols may flash and knives are apt to spring. In all other matters the people of Iviza are peaceable and on all points moral and virtuous. It must be admitted that certain of the more frolicsome spirits keep up the custom of saluting the maidens of their choice with a charge of rock salt aimed at the ankles, and it is devoutly to be hoped that the unwieldy masses of petticoats serve at least one useful purpose by shielding the wearers from the saline missiles of love's artillery.

Except on the coast there are no inns or hotels in Morocco.

THE JOINED FRAGMENTS.

Waiter: What will you have, sir?

Customer (looking over the restaurant bill of fare): Permit me to cogitate. In the correlation of forces it is a recognized property of automic fragments, whatever their age, to joint, and—

Waiter (shouts across the hall): Hash for one!—London Tit-Bits.

THE PICTURE SHOWS.

At the Fairy.

At the Fairy theater today and tomorrow "The Deluge" will hold the picture screen for one of the most remarkable and interesting motion pictures ever shown in Fort Wayne. It is called "The Deluge" and is as faithful a reproduction as can be made of the biblical account of the great flood and of the entrance of the animals into the great ark built by Noah at the Lord's command. The picture is not only interesting to all classes but specially instructive to children.

At Casino Monday and Tuesday.

The lecture on the pictures of the individual's life in New York, is worth while going miles to see.

How they survive; pictures of the noted homes, hotels and tenment houses, and the traveler there. Besides you have a chance to see the regular bill at the Casino. That means something to you.

James G. Ryan has returned to Chicago after a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Ryan, of South Calhoun street.

SLAVES TO THE DEADLY DRUGS.

Patent Medicines and Doctors Largely Responsible for People Becoming Dope Fiends—One Michigan Town a Hotbed of Them.

(New York Telegraph.)

There are probably one million people in the United States addicted to drug habits. And this is a conservative estimate. If you doubt it, look up the statistics and be convinced.

Not more than five years ago 80 per cent. of drug fiends used morphine or opium. But in the last five years there have been so many new drugs put on the market that morphine and opium have been superseded in a measure.

The habit formed by morphine and opium is mild compared to the new and more deadly drugs now becoming popular. Opium smoking is the mildest form of drug taking, and is the easiest habit to cure. It takes longer to become addicted to the use of opium than any drug known. It takes at least six months to contract the opium habit, and then only by persistently smoking several hours a day.

The morphine habit can be contracted in one month by using a grain a day, if used hypodermically. There is a sensation of inserting the needle below the surface of the skin that seemed to be part of the habit. Fifty per cent. of morphine fiends will tell you that doctors are to blame for their condition. And it seems a fact. Doctors give it to patients to relieve pain. Instead of trying to get at the seat of the trouble they keep on giving morphine. In a few weeks the morphine habit has been contracted.

Cocaine is another "popular" habit. And 50 per cent. of its devotees have contracted the habit unconsciously through the use of catarrh cures. A half dozen firms in the United States have made fortunes selling a powder supposed to cure catarrh that contained 10 per cent. cocaine. And until the pure food law shut down on them they found it hard to supply the demand. Poor people were victims of the habit along with the rich. A more terrible habit has never been known. The man to first put this powder on the market went insane and died from experimenting with it before it became popular. He never enjoyed the thousands of dollars derived from it and never knew the terrible destruction the drug wrought. It did not take enterprising chemists long to see the value of the "cure," and the big demand for it, so in less than a year after the powder was put on the market five new "cures" were bidding for the fortunes at 20, 40 and 60 cents a bottle. A small rubber tube with a glass tip went with each bottle, the glass tip to be inserted in the nostrils and the tube to be placed in the mouth, to blow the powder into the head. A small amount of menthol led the person to think it was beneficial, as it would relieve the person troubled with catarrh for a few moments, but would have to be repeated again in a few minutes.

After a few months of this treatment the person would become addicted to cocaine, as the powder would not be strong enough to satisfy the craving for it.

As an example of how far reaching this habit was Stanley Ketchel, the middleweight champion of the world, who was shot and killed a few months ago, told the writer, during a conversation about this drug that three quarters of the population of his town (Belmont, Mich.) were addicted to the use of the powder.

When the law making it a felony to sell it went into effect the suffering was intense. Ketchel said that they thought nothing of pouring the powder out on the back of their hands and drawing it up into their nostrils in full sight of lookers-on. But in the large cities where the ingredients became known, people would use it under cover. When Ketchel left his home (after the Johnson fight) he was requested by at least a dozen people to send on some of the powder from the city, as they had been receiving it by mail, but were cut off when the new law went into effect. Ketchel sent some home from Pittsburg, where he had a friend who got it for him.

And during the last trip to San Francisco, for the Jeffries-Johnson fight, he bought ten dollars' worth and took it home to the neighbors. An idea of its sweeping influence can be gleaned from the fact that the population of Belmont, Mich., is about 200. People all over the country answered advertisements in the monthly magazines to get the "cures."

There were probably 20 different cough mixtures on the market before the drug law was enacted that had morphine or opium in them, and now cannot be procured without a prescription from a doctor. The drug law saved many children from becoming drug fiends.

Can it be wondered at the large increase in drug habits when even cough syrups for children had opium in them? There is always some chemist trying to figure out how to beat the law in regard to drugs by putting up some preparation that a person will become addicted to, and, in time, probably kill. Every little while a new drug will be brought to light that has been hidden under a simple label.

"Heroine" is the latest habit to find favor among the class that are always looking for some new sensation, and it bids fair to rival even the "Burneys," judging from the short time that it has been on the market.

Every time a "coke" fiend gets enough money he goes on a "coke drunk," just as a drunkard does on whisky. And it is very humorous. It is impossible for the fiend to keep still a second when in that condition, as he has no control over his nerves. This is not a common sight, as every few can afford these "drunks," and are afraid of being very conspicuous when in that condition.

Everything is magnified to a "coke" fiend; a speck of cigar ash on the sleeve will cause them to pluck a hole as large as a silver dollar in it.

Hashish, or East India hemp, is another rare drug that creates almost the same effect, only with more control over the nerves. It is invariably used in conjunction with opium.

Opium, as I said, is a mild form of drug, and has to be cooked over a small lamp. This takes most of the poison from it; but when hashish is used with it it creates a feeling hard to explain. It seems to deaden all the senses, and remembering your name is a task when under its influence. It causes a person to become nearsighted, or farsighted, as the case may be. I have seen people under the influence of this drug think they were stepping up to the curb when they were in the middle of the street. And another to signal a car to stop when it was two blocks away. People will cry out without any apparent reason, and others will laugh without anything being said that could be construed as humor.

In appearance it looks like a heavy syrup, but deep green in color. It is rolled on a pill of opium, as soon as the pill is cooked, and quickly absorbs from the heat of the lamp. It has a heavy, sweet odor, and very little can be used at a time.

There have been 20 different "cures" for drug habits put on the market in the last few years, but most of them are worse than the habit, as a person very probably will become addicted to the "cure," most of the medicines having in them some drug worse than the one the patient is trying to get away from.

I know a man who takes a bottle of one "cure" every day, and has what is known as a "medicine habit" among drug fiends. It is not an uncommon habit. Drug fiends will tell you the only sure cure is to reduce the quantity taken each time, a reduction system.

Ether is one of the latest drugs to be taken up in this country. In France for a number of years it has been a popular way of acquiring that languid feeling, but now bids fair to become prevalent here, although it will never take the place of morphine, cocaine or opium. The danger is too great for it to become as popular as these drugs. In France it is used by persons who dissipate to induce sleep. A half dozen cases that proved fatal caused an investigation in France that brought to light the extent of the practice of using ether. Laying a handkerchief saturated with it on a pillow, a short distance from the nostrils, until the amount required has been consumed, seems to be the favorite way of using it. But the danger of falling asleep and inhaling too much has been of such frequency that it will never take the place of the less dangerous drugs.

A drug fiend's contempt for a drunkard furnishes an odd bit of irony. He will watch the antics of a drunken man and deplore the fact that he is addicted to strong drink. And the drinking man will look at the drug fiend with astonishment, and shun him as he would a leper. Still it's a fact that the drinking man is the more conspicuous. A drug fiend, in most cases, is a model of propriety and does not like the company of boisterous companions.

Opium fiends have been reduced 50 per cent. in the last two years by the law forbidding it being brought into this country. But they have been forced to some other drug. Opium will always be brought to this country, but it will be for people with money to pay the price. From $4.50 a can 10 years ago to $50 a can now is quite a jump; but still there is a market for it, and a very large one at that. It is worth while now to take the chance to smuggle it in, and a person with the habit and the money will never be inconvenienced.

Children Injured

Ordinary Cathartics and Pills and Harsh Physic Cause Distressing Complaints.

You cannot be over-careful in the selection of medicine for children. Only the very gentlest bowel medicine should ever be given, except in emergency cases. Ordinary pills, cathartics and purgatives are apt to do more harm than good. They cause griping, nausea and other distressing after-effects that are frequently health-destroying and a life-lasting annoyance.

We personally recommend and guarantee Rexall Orderlies as the safest and most dependable remedy for constipation and associate bowel disorders. We have such absolute faith in the virtues of this remedy that we sell it on our guarantee of money back in every instance where it fails to give entire satisfaction, and we urge all in need of such medicine to try it at our risk.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy. They are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness or other undesirable effects. They have a very natural action upon the glands and organs with which they come in contact, act as a positive and regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel and its dry mucous lining; remove irritation, overcome weakness, tone and strengthen the nerves and muscles, and restore the bowels and associate organs to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Rexall Orderlies completely relieve constipation, except when of a surgical character. They also tend to overcome the necessity of constantly taking laxatives to keep the bowels in normal condition. Two sizes of packages, 10 cents and 25 cents. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Fort Wayne only at our stores—The Rexall Stores. The Meyer Bros. Co., Four Drug Stores.

GERMAN AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK

The remark most often made regarding the German American Bank is that it is a very much alive institution.

The officers and employes are without exception always looking for and seeking some new way to serve the bank's customers.

If there is something they can do in this direction that they are not doing, they would be glad to have you tell them.

The savings department in this National bank has become one of the features of the institution. It pays 4 per cent. interest on small sums and throws around your savings all the safeguards of the National Banking system.

BAD BLOOD OFTEN INHERITED

Bad blood does not always come as the result of careless living, or indiscretions; it is a condition frequently inherited. Normal, healthy blood contains millions of tiny red corpuscles, which are the vitalizing and nourishing element of the circulation, their office being to provide every portion of the system with its necessary strength and nutriment. In weak, impure blood these corpuscles are lacking in numbers, and therefore the blood is not able to supply the proper amount of nourishment to the body. Bad blood manifests itself in many ways. With some it takes the form of skin diseases and eruptions, others become bilious and malarious, with sallow complexions, torpid liver, etc. Bad blood produces Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula and like troubles. Nothing is equal to S. S. S. as a remedy for bad blood; it is the greatest of all blood purifiers, possessing not only the qualities to cleanse and purify the blood, but composed of roots, herbs and barks that tone up every part of the system, and assist in the creation of blood nutriment. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Skin Diseases, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Blood Poison and all other blood disorders. S. S. S. makes good blood, and good blood makes good health. Book on the blood free to all.

John R. Morron, the president of a great cement company, was praising cement at the New York Cement show.

"It is the fashion now, too," he said. "It is as much the fashion as the new-fangled decolette gown from Paris. There will probably be the same difficulty about it.

"One man said to another at a ball the other night:

"'Do you have any trouble keeping your wife in clothes?'

"'Rather!' the other answered. 'Haven't you noticed the new French decollette gown she's wearing?'"

"Never undertake," he said, "to do too much. In applying for a position, it is almost better to promise too little than too much. Remember the model.

"An old chap, you know, applied to a New York artist for the post of model.

"'Well,' said the artist, 'what do you sit for?'

"'Oh, anything, sir,' said the model, fingering his gray beard nervously. 'Anything you like, sir. Landscape, if necessary.'"

The Postoffice, The Popular Magazines and the People

A provision has been added to the Postoffice Appropriation Bill by the Senate Postoffice Committee without proper notice or public hearing. It provides for an unjust, discriminatory and confiscatory tax on the popular magazines. By attaching this provision to the Postoffice Appropriation Bill at the eleventh hour, all opportunity for open discussion and consideration by the people, the publishers and the Senate was cut off. It was an un-American, star-chamber proceeding, accomplished under Presidential and political coercion.

If this bill is passed, with the provision which practically exempts from taxation magazines which have not spoken boldly on public questions, many of the popular periodicals will be put out of business altogether and the others, without exception, will be seriously crippled.

Even if it were possible for the magazines to continue in business under these new conditions, the people would derive no benefit from the measure; for until the Postoffice Department is taken out of politics, and a business-like management installed, it is improbable that any additional revenue collected will be used economically.

We urge every friend of honest politics, economical government and a free press to telegraph or write an immediate protest to their Senators and Representatives.

HER FRENCH.

Winthrop Ames, at the New Theater's anniversary dinner in New York, said with a laugh:

"At the New theater we try to be cosmopolitan. In setting a London scene, for example, we wouldn't make the dome of St. Paul's visible across the river from the terrace of the savoy.

"That sort of thing happens, you known, in New York. It rather shows us up. It is rather amusing—like the French of the consul's wife.

"I was lunching once in a town in the Midi with the consul and his good lady. Mrs. Consul all through the meal had a good deal of difficulty in making herself understood by her French waiting maid. When the dessert was brought on, she turned to the maid and said, in an angry aside:

"'Not these couteaux. Bring me the couteaux with the ivory handles.'

"Then she turned to us and added, thumping her fist on the table, while the maid stood mystified:

"D—— the language! I wish I'd never learnt it.'"

FORTISSIMO.

WHEN Gladys plays her baby grand,
No matter if it's night or day,
The neighbors run to beat the band
And close the windows right away.
Hre brother makes down for the creek,
Her mother faints if she's not fanned,
Her father takes a quiet sneak—
When Gladys thumps her baby grand.

The children run and hide their heads—
They know that something has gone wrong;
The dog and cat take to their beds—
Their nerves are very far from strong;
She kills the live things in the cheese,
The butter runs at her command,
The birds are senseless in the trees,
When Gladys claws her baby grand.

The baby grand her time employs.
She says she really makes it talk.
I know it makes some sort of noise,
But that it speaks—I'll have to balk.
If it could talk, and without stint,
What it would say, please understand,
I know would not be fit to print
When Gladys bangs her baby grand.

Easily Understood.

The showman was in his element. Before an admiring crowd of country yokels he was dilating upon the virtues of this waxwork collection, gathered upon the village green. Turning to the effigy of a thin, attenuated gentleman in gorgeous garb, he exclaimed:

"Now, this, gentlemen, this is the cream of the 'ole collection. You'd be surprised if I was to tell you wot I paid fir 'im. 'E's taken from life, 'e is. 'E's"—

"Stow the guff, mister, and come to the point!" interrupted a voice. "Tell us 'o 'e is!"

"'E's George IV., gentlemen, hemperor of Hindia, one of the greatest English monarchs since the time of William the Conqueror."

"But I thought," interposed a small man in blue glasses, determined to get full value for the threepence admission he had paid, "that George IV. was a very stout man."

"Very likely 'e was, sir," replied the showman. "But if you'd been 'ere as long as 'e 'as without even a mouthful of food you'd 'ave shrunk a bit yerself."—London Answers.

Every Precaution Taken.

During a recent smallpox epidemic in Alabama special precautions against the disease were taken in the mining camps. In one of these camps the president of the mining company paid a visit of inspection and came upon an old negro leaning against the side of a building.

"Jake," asked the president, "are you afraid of the smallpox out here?"

"Some may be, sah," Jake replied. "As fo' me, I ain't scahed. I's jest gwine toh get me some lime an' limate mah house, an' den de doctah, he's comin' up an' 'sassinate mah fambly, so dat den, sah, if we do git de smallpox 'twon't be nothin' but de celluloid."—Woman's Home Companion.

The Gum Shoe Artist.

The gum shoe man all softly goes.
He never treads on people's toes,
And he turns up, you must agree,
Where no one ever thought he'd be.
But when he finds he's out of place
His footsteps soft he must retrace.
No constant goal is his to win.
He gum shoes out as he came in.

A little while, perchance, he'll stand
On lofty heights and view the land,
But soon upon his sight must dawn
The admonition stern, "Move on."
The man who plants his banner fair
Aloft and cries defiance there
May hold a place, but nothing can
Be certain for the gum shoe man.

MARVELS OF BIRD FLIGHT.

On the horizon in tropical countries there often appears a small black point visible only to the practised eye. The point increases in size as it approaches. It is the sailing bird par excellence, the vulture, returning to its hollow in the rock a dozen miles away.

A glider, who sails magnificently upon its outstretched wings, without a beat, without the slightest deviation from its perfectly straight track, it thus traveres the space from one horizon to the other, again becomes an imperceptible point and disappears, leaving the spectator marveling at the simplicity with which nature solves a problem of mechanics wich appeared impossible to man.

When one observes a sea eagle perched upon a loft cliff it may be remarked that in order to quit its eyrie it waits until a gust of wind arises, then it lets itself fall forward with extended wings, gives a beat or two as it turns, brings itself to face the wind and thus mounts without a wing beat hundreds of yards high.

A gliding bird so sets its wings that the air currents make an angle with their plane. The wind thus sustains its weight and gives it at the same time a forward movement. If its force is stronger than is necessary to obtain these two effects it produces a third effect—the bird mounts into space without a wing beat. If the air suddenly became calm the bird would fall, but the fall would be astonishingly slow.

Prof. Drzewiecki has calculated that a gliding bird, at a height of 1,200 yards, at the moment when it commences to descend with motionless wings, can by setting them at the most favorable angle touch the ground at a horizontal distance of about fifteen miles! If the wind fall, large birds can always, with a few wing beats, attain an altitude where they will find a wind which will permit them to continue their journey "on the glide."

The gusts and eddies of the wind are of course great disturbers of flight, and few birds attempt to struggle with a tempest. Even the strongest fliers have not from this point of view so much boldness as they general get credit for. Thus the stormy petrel is so named, not because it braves the storm, but because as soon as a storm threatens it will often seek for refuge on a ship's rigging, and thus foretell the tempest. And if the alabatross loves the stormy waves it is only because it frequently alights upon the water, where it often sleeps securely to the rocking of the billows.—Strand.

The Adventures of Mr. Peter Ruff

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Mrs. Bognor's Star Boarder

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY THE PEARSON PUBLISHING CO.

"Delighted, I'm sure!" the latter answered, utterly unsuspicious. "Shall we go into the smoking-room now, or would you rather play a rubber first?"

"If it is all the same to you," Peter Ruff said, "I think we will have a cigar first. There will be plenty of time for bridge afterwards."

"May I offer you a cigar, sir?" Major Jones inquired, passing across a well-filled case.

Peter Ruff sighed.

"I am afraid, Major," he said, "that there is scarcely time. You see, I have a warrant in my pocket for your arrest, and I am afraid that by the time we got to the station——"

Major Jones leaned forward in his chair. He gripped the sides tightly with both hands. His eyes seemed to be protruding from his head.

"For my what?" he exclaimed, in a tone of horror.

"For your arrest," Peter Ruff explained calmly. "Surely you must have been expecting it! During all these years you must have grown used to expecting it at every moment!"

Major Jones collapsed. He looked at Ruff as one might look at a man who has taken leave of his senses. Yet underneath it all was the coward's fear!

"What are you talking about, man?" he exclaimed. "What do you mean? Lower your voice, for heaven's sake! Consider my position here! Some one might overhear! If this is a joke, let me tell you that it's a d——d foolish one!"

Peter Ruff raised his eyebrows.

"I do not wish," he said, "to create a disturbance—my manner of coming here should have assured you of that. At the same time, business is business. I hold a warrant for your arrest, and I am forced to execute it."

"Do you mean that you are a detective, then?" Major Jones demanded.

He was a big man, but his voice seemed to have grown very small indeed.

"Naturally," Peter Ruff answered. "I should not come here without authority."

"What is the charge?" the other man faltered.

"Blackmail," Peter Ruff said slowly. "The information against you is lodged by Sir Richard Dyson."

It seemed to Peter Ruff, who was watching his companion closely, that a wave of relief passed over the face of the man who sat cowering in his chair. He certainly drew a little gasp—stretched out his hands, as though to thrust the shadow of some fear from him. His voice, when he spoke, was stronger. Some faint show of courage was returning to him.

"There is some ridiculous mistake," he declared. "Let us talk this over like sensible men, Mr. Ruff. If you will wait until I have spoken to Sir Richard, I can promise you that the warrant shall be withdrawn, and that you shall not be the loser."

"I am afraid it is too late for anything of that sort," Peter Ruff said. "Sir Richard's patience has been completely exhausted by your repeated demands."

"He never told me so," Major Jones whined. "I quite thought that he was always glad to help an old friend. As a matter of fact, I had not meant to ask him for anything else. The last few hundreds I had from him was to have closed the thing up. It was the end."

Peter Ruff shook his head.

"No," he said, "it was not the end! It never would have been the end! Sir Richard sought my advice, and I gave it him without hesitation. Sooner or later, I told him, he would have to adopt different measures. I convinced him. I represent those measures!"

"But the matter can be arranged," Major Jones insisted, with a little shudder, "I am perfectly certain it can be arranged. Mr. Ruff, you are not an ordinary police officer—I am sure of that. Give me a chance of having an interview with Sir Richard before anything more is done. I will satisfy him, I promise you that. Why, if we leave the place together like this, everyone here will get to know about it!"

"Be reasonable," Peter Ruff answered. "Of course everyone will get to know about it! Blackmailing cases always excite a considerable amount of interest. Your photograph will probably be in the Daily Mirror tomorrow or the next day. In the meantime, I must trouble you to pay your respects to Mrs. Bognor and to come with me."

"To Sir Richard's house?" Major Jones asked, eagerly.

"To the police-station," Peter Ruff answered.

Major Jones did not rise. He sat for a few moments with his head buried in his hands.

VALUE OF A GOOD MEMORY.

Its Possession Not Always Proof of a Great Mind.

The trouble with old men usually is their memories become overloaded with actual and psychic facts, among which they are unable to distinguish those that have a value for the present and those that have become obsolete. Generally speaking, an old man knows a great deal more than a young man, but, says the Dietetic and Hygienic Gazette, it does not necessarily follow that he is wiser. While therefore, a strong memory is a great convenience, it is not necessarily an advantage.

Cardinal Mezzofanti, whose memory for words was so retentive that he never forgot one after hearing it once, and which enabled him to acquire more than a hundred languages, was in most respects a very ordinary person. Pliny relates that Mithridates, king of Pontus, had so excellent a memory that he was able to speak fluently twenty-two languages native to the provinces of his vast empire. Yet he was a cruel barbarian.

A well-known peripatetic elocutionist and reciter still living declares that he can repeat without further preparation about 3,000 selections in prose and poetry. He probably tells the truth, since he has been training his mind in this particular direction for many years.

On the other hand, such men as Sir Walter Scott, Macaulay and Gladstone were not only the possessors of excellent memories, they were also men of good judgment.

Among human beings children have the most remarkable memories. Under favorable circumstances they will learn three and even four languages, so as to be able to express their thoughts with equal ease in any one of them by the time they are six or seven years of age.

And they accomplish this remarkable feat without any aid from mnemonic devices to which adults are compelled to resort when they undertake a similar task. They learn words and phrases unconsciously, and rarely forget them as long as they live. On the other hand, grown-ups rarely acquire an accurate pronunciation of a foreign language, although they may be able to use it with entire correctness.

It is a common belief that the memory is more tenacious in early life than in later years. That seems to depend almost entirely on the individual.

Sedentary habits, lack of outdoor exercise, insufficient mastication of food, constipation, a torpid liver, worry and anxiety, are the most common causes of stomach troubles. Correct your habits and take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and you will soon be well again. For sale by all dealers.

HISTORIC HILL SOLD.

The historic hill of Tara, once described by James Bryce, British ambassador in Washington, as "the most interesting and authentic monument of early civilization in northwestern Europe," is about to be sold, says a report from Dublin.

Today Tara hill looks much like any other hill, but on it once stood the royal palace of the Ard Righs, or high kings, of Ireland, for many centuries. It was there while a great national assembly was being held that St. Patrick converted the Ard Right Leary to Christianity, an event which is celebrated in many old Gaelic poems.

The glories of the place came to an end in a curious way. The ard righ, grandson or great-grandson of Leary, sent his representative out through the provinces to collect the usual annual tribute. This particular representative of the high king was a little bit injudicious, for when he arrived at the palace of King Guare, of Connaught, he insisted on entering it with his spear across his body under his arms.

The spear was too long, or the door was too narrow, to admit of entrance in this way. So in the name of the ard righ he ordered the door to be pulled down so that he could enter in the way he desired. King Guare refused. Hence the feud that ultimately laid Tara low.

The clerics championed the cause of King Guare, and in due time a deputation of them went to Tara, and one of them solemnly cursed the hill, with the result that it became gradually deserted, that the immense palace fell into ruins and that it ceased to be the seat of the high kings of Ireland.

Some years ago the owner of the hill, who died a short while ago, got the idea that the ark of the covenant was buried there and had excavations made, but all that was found were a few old coins and weapons. —London correspondence, New York Sun.

SPEAKS WORD OF GREETING HERE

President Taft Expresses His Good Wishes for Fort Wayne.

HIS STAY WAS BRIEF

Just long enough to express his appreciation of the honor of a visit from more than one thousand Fort Wayne people, and to extend his good wishes for the welfare and prosperity of Fort Wayne and its people President Taft stepped out upon the rear platform of his special car at the Pennsylvania station Sunday and spoke to the big crowd which had assembled to see the nation's chief executive. He explained that it was not his custom to speak upon the Sabbath, and his talk was very brief. Altogether the president was in the city limits but twenty minutes.

Crowd Waited Long.

For several hours the crowd had waited in the hope that the announced program might be changed in order to permit a longer stay by President Taft in Fort Wayne. His special car "Federal" had been brought from the west by Wabash train No. 28, due at 9:42 o'clock Sunday morning, but in order to avoid a big crush upon Sunday the presidential car was dropped off at the Hugo switch, west of the city, and here in the calm of a Sunday morning in the rural districts the presidential party awaited to make its passage through the city later.

At 11:50 o'clock, shortly before the arrival of the Pennsylvania train which was to carry the president eastward, the Taft car was brought down into the city and was transferred to the Pennsylvania tracks at Lafayette street. Here it was that the waiting crowd had an opportunity to see the president. During the twenty minutes which elapsed before the departure of the Pennsylvania train at 12:10 o'clock a number of Fort Wayne men climbed into the presidential car and greeted Mr. Taft. Among them were Mayor Grice, Postmaster Hanna, City Attorney H. G. Hogan, Judge R. S. Taylor, C. F. Bicknell, G. J. Gilbert, Dr. A. E. Bulson and A. W. Grosvenor.

Chats With Judge Taylor.

Of these, Judge Taylor alone enjoyed a chat with the president, and they were in conversation for three-fourths ofthe time the car remained in the city.

"Indiana is yours," said Judge Taylor to the president; "it wasn't with you a year ago," he continued, "but it is now."

"What is puzzling me," replied the president, "is what I am to do with it." He was smiling, however, and was plainly gratified at the report which Judge Taylor brought him. The two chatted also regarding the rivers and harbors bill and the work of the Mississippi river commission, of which Judge Taylor is a member. Just before the departure of the train Mr. Taft stepped out upon the platform and greeted the crowd that was massed about his car, and his reception was most kindly. In connection with his good wishes for Fort Wayne the president said he hoped to be able to visit the city again.

Capt. Archibald Butt, the president's aide, accompanied Mr. Taft, and Wabash officials, including General Superintendent S. E. Cotter, Superintendent J. S. Sullivan and Special Agent J. B. Sollitt, accompanied the president's train to Fort Wayne, while Superintendent W. M. Wardrop, of the Pennsylvania, accompanied the eastward bound train which bore the president toward Washington. A strong detail of both city and Pennsylvania railroad police was on duty during the stop of the presidential train in Fort Wayne.

A builder of Oklahoma writes the bureau of manufactures that he finds it profitable to build four-room cement houses and sell them complete with cisterns, front and rear porches of cement and outbuilding, including the ground, at $1,000, on the instalment plan. He is doing this thirty-five miles from a railroad station, notwithstanding heavy freight charges of 25 cents a hundredweight drayage on all cement, lumber, hardware and all other building material except sand. The cottages in question have cement floor, steel ceilings, partition walls of hollow blocks, as well as outside walls. Although the roofs are shingled, the contractor says that the whole structure is practically fireproof and constitutes a very substantial building.—Cement Age.

SUBSCRIBER COMES BACK.

Never Could Find Anything He Read About.

PAST the protesting elevator man and the equally indignant office boy he had forced his way square up to the desk of the managing editor. There was fire in his eye.

"Yes, sir," he announced with angry precision, "I've come back! Just becuz Jeffries couldn't come back I s'pose you thought nobody couldn't. You had an idee you could go right on bunkoing folks without anybody saying 'Boo!' There's my card. I'm the darn fool that's been taking your paper for the last thirty years."

"Really, Mr. a—a—Judson, I'm not acquainted with the subscription lists."

"You ain't? I s'pose you'll say you don't remember a letter I wrote you a year ago when I got that $25,000 left me?"

"H'm—a"—

"Oh, you do remember it, do ye? And maybe you remember that I wrote I was going to spend the money looking up the things I'd read about in your paper for the last thirty years?"

"Did you do it?"

"Did I do it? The first place I went to was Northampton, Mass. Do you remember the piece you printed in '91 about Northampton, Mass.?"

"It wasn't a strike, was it?"

"No, sir, it wasn't a strike, nor a fire, nor a cyclone. It was a piece about a girl that had slept steady for eight weeks without a bite to eat."

"Well, was she awake when you got there?"

"No, sir. She wasn't awake when I got there, and she wasn't asleep neither—she wasn't nowhere. And when I ast the people that lived in Northampton all their lives what do you s'pose they told me?"

"I haven't an idea."

"They say that girl never lived there at all; that there never was such a girl, and that nobody ever heard of her except in your paper."

"I'm sorry," said the editor, hoping to stem the tirade.

"I'll make you sorrier before I get through with you. Do you remember that piece you published in '86 about the spring in Big Bend, Ark., that ran lemon phosphate?"

"Can't say I recall exactly"—

"Don't matter. I can prove it becuz I've got the clipping in my scrap book. Well, Big Bend was the first place I went."

"What was the matter? Did the spring run wild cherry?"

"No, sir, nor tame cherry, nor sarsaparilly, nor chocolate ice cream sody. There ain't a spring in town, and when I ast folks about it they laffed—yes, sir, they laffed."

"I deeply regret"—

"And in Peaberry, Illinoy, Amos Wilkins took a shotgun to me when I dropped in to inquire about the buried treasure that you said he dug up in his orchard in nineteen-five. So many folks had ast him about the treasure he'd never found that he'd gone clean out of his head."

"But fortunately you escaped?"

"Yes, sir, I escaped to find that there ain't any fisherman by the name of Terwilliger Botts at Newburyport and that he never saw no sea serpent; that haunted house out in Vermilion, South Dakota, never was haunted, and the escaped meenagerie near Tucson, Arizona, didn't escape at all. There never was a wild man at Paterson, New Jersey; Susie Willets at Sun Prairie, Nebrasky, never even saw an eagle, and you says she was carried off by one. Richard J. Jensen at the University of Minnesota didn't invent a machine to undress him, and Lottie Le Roy, the well known show girl, doesn't carry around four young boa constrictors to play with between acts. But I ain't mean, Mr. Editor. I'm going to give you a true piece to write up in your paper. Just have somebody write down this: 'At the age of sixty-five Oscar F. Judson of Oskowee, Wis., began licking editors.'"— And if the religious editor and the foreman hadn't happened in Mr. Judson would have begun very well indeed.—Horatio Winslow in Puck.

Justification.

"Now, look here, my dear," said a husband decidedly, "I am sure we don't need that bearskin rug. How often have I told you not to go and buy things because they are cheap?"

"But, my love," replied his wife, "this wasn't cheap; it cost $50!"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Literally.

Mr. Stiles — What! Another new street dress? Where's the last one you got?

Mrs. Stiles—I have worn it out.

Mr. Stiles—It isn't a week since you got it.

Mrs. Stiles—I wore it out last Thursday.—Boston Evening Transcript.

THE COW-BOY'S IDEA.

Men have different ideas of religion. With some it is mainly a feeling, with others it is largely form; with some it is mostly faith, with others it is generally talk!

A converted cow-boy gives this as his idea of what religion is: "Lots of folks that would really like to do right think that servin' the Lord means shoutin' themselves hoarse praisin' His name. Now I'll tell you how I look at that. I'm workin' for Jim here. Now, if I'd sit around the house here tellin' what a good fellow Jim is, and singin' songs to him, an' gettin' up in the night to serenade him, I'd be doin' just like what lots of Christians do, but I wouldn't suit Jim, and I'd get fired mighty quick. But when I buckle on my straps and hustle among the hills and see that Jim's herd is all right, an' not sufferin' for water and feed, or bein' off the range and branded by cow thieves, then I'm servin Jim as he wants to be served."

This was the converted cow-boy's idea. Does it not sound a little like the voice of Him, who, when His disciples said, "Lord, thou knowest all things, Thou knowest that I love Thee," only answered, "Tend my sheep; tend my lambs?"—The Armory.

As a result of recent investigations, T. Southwell finds that the fishes most destructive to pearl oysters are those commonly known as globe fish. Another fish belonging to the group known as Pagrina is seldom or never found without oysters in its stomach. The larger species of rays and sharks are suspected of committing great ravages in the oyster beds, but hitherto Mr. Southwell has not been able to convict them by finding oysters inside them.—London Globe.

TOO WISE.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the government's food expert, said at a recent dinner in Washington:

"But in our search for pure foods we may go too far. Thus a lady entered a grocer's the other day and said:

"'Have you got any currants?'

"The clerk, a college graduate, replied:

"'Yes, madam, we have very fine Corinths, or small dried grapes from the Greek town of that name—currants, you know, is the corrupted form. How many will you have?'

"'None at all if they're corrupted,' muttered the lady. 'I belong to a pure-food league.'"

AN ECCENTRIC WILL.

The highly original will of a bachelor, Emil von Bizony, is published in the Hungarian papers. Mr. von Bizony, the brother of a well-known Hungarian deputy, was 65, detested women and was on bad terms with all his relatives. Although the owner of a great deal of land he lived so frugally that he did not spend the tenth part of his income.

In his will he bequeathed all his real and personal property to his twelve draught horse. As executors of the will he named the Society for the Protection of Animals at Budapest, stipulating that the interest on his property should be devoted to the care of these twelve animals and that upon the death of one on them another aged horse was to be taken in and cared for so that the number of twelve might always be maintained.

Herr von Bizony's relatives naturally did not like the will, and the deputy will dispute it. Negotiations have been begun with the above mentioned society and $20,000 was offered as a compromise, but was refused. The property is worth about $200,000.—London correspondence, New York Sun.

REASON AND FAITH.

It is well to bear in mind that most of the so-called "modern" difficulties of belief are by no means new, but have at recurring periods been put prominently forward by "thinkers lost and gone." Whatever may be the difficulties of intellectual apprehension, "belief would"—as has been finely said—"cease to be itself, were it capable of mathematical demonstration."

There are regions into which reason cannot penetrate, and then "faith must go forward alone with its torch to light the way." The history of reason shows conclusively that every attempt to make it the only light of humanity has failed. "You may drive faith out by the door, but it will return through the window." "Blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed" (John 20: 29).—London Christian.

ANGELS WITH WINGS.

"What is an angel, mother?" asked a 6-year-old.

"Why, dear, it is a beautiful lady with wings, who flies. But why do you ask?"

"Because I heard father call my governess an an angel."

"O!" said the mother. "Well, dear, you watch her and you will see her fly tomorrow."—Boston Herald.
